Senatorial Complaints Spur Move To Shorten M'Carthy-Army Probe

U. S. Won't Enter Indochina War Without Britain

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Administration officials virtually ruled out today any direct U.S. intervention in the Indochina War unless Britain agrees to join a coalition to protect Southeast Asia against Communist conquest.

Secretary of State Dulles is due back from the Geneva Conference Tuesday night for talks with President Eisenhower and congressional leaders which undoubtedly will add up to a new look at U.S. policy toward Indochina in the light of events unforeseen two weeks or so ago.

Defeat For Dulles' Hope

Probably the most significant of these was a decision by Britain's Churchill government against joining an American-sponsored Southeast Asia defense agreement in advance of Indochina negotiations with the Communists at Geneva. Authorities here privately concede the project now is shelved, for the time being at least. This represents a defeat for Dulles' hope of quickly forming a united front on the Indochina issue.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said yesterday he thought the United States should go ahead even without one of its major allies—obviously meaning Britain. But Eisenhower and Dulles have made the formation of a united front the first objective of their Indochina program; they are reported determined not to let United States become involved in another Asian conflict in which it would carry the main burden, as in Korea.

Sense Of Urgency

Little more than a week ago there was a strong sense of urgency in the government here. France had appealed for American planes, flown by American pilots from American aircraft carriers, to blast the Reds around Dien Bien Phu.

(The New York Herald Tribune reported today, in a copyright story by Joseph and Stewart Alsop, that the administration came close last week to asking Congress to approve American intervention in Indochina. The resolution was drafted, the story said, and shown to French Ambassador Henri Bonnet. But then the British turned down the "united action" proposal at an emergency cabinet meeting last Sunday.)

Children Give Pontiff Ovation

VATICAN CITY, May 2 (AP)—Thousands of school children gave Pope Pius XII a thunderous ovation today at his first general audience since he became ill more than three months ago. His face was pale but his manner was comparatively energetic and his voice strong; his whole appearance indicated notable recovery.

As the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church was borne into St. Peter's basilica a roaring cheer rose from thousands. It continued unbroken 10 minutes.

The Pope raised his arms repeatedly in blessing and many times bent far down as though he sought to touch one or another of the children. He appeared to be as deeply moved as they were.

"Our soul," he said in his first words to them, "has been flooded with a tumult of joy... thank you, dear children..."

His voice was resonant and stronger even than it was on his Easter Sunday broadcast, when he warned the world against use of atomic, biological and chemical weapons.

Socialite Is Killed In 17-Story Plunge

CHICAGO, May 2 (AP)—Florence Dibell Bartlett, 72, socialite, and hardware fortune heir and art patroness, died today in a 17-story plunge from the patio of her Gold Coast penthouse.

Chicago Avenue police said a resident of a nearby building on Lake Shore Drive reported he had seen a woman climb over a parapet on the roof of the building where Miss Bartlett lived at 70 E. Cedar St.

Her body was found in a parking lot beside the building. Police said she struck an automobile parked in the lot.

Storms In South Central States Leave 12 Dead

(By The Associated Press)

The threat of tornadoes in two states ended Sunday night and the Weather Bureau at Chicago said the danger of new twisters was diminishing in some other areas.

The Weather Bureau said a tornado threat in Iowa and Illinois had ended.

Earlier the bureau said there was danger of isolated tornadoes in southern Wisconsin, central Missouri, central and southern Michigan and the Southwest. But Sunday night, the bureau said, the threat was dissipated somewhat, although severe local thunderstorms in widespread areas were accompanied by high winds.

Over the weekend 12 deaths were attributed to twisters, high winds, and flood-starting downpours in the nation's south central region.

Eight Killed In Mississippi
Eight persons died as the result of storm fury in Mississippi; six in auto crashes, one when a power line snapped and electrocuted him, and one of drowning in his back yard.

Four persons were killed and 63 injured in Oklahoma where battering tornadoes out of the Southwest swept northeast across the state causing hundreds of thousands of dollars damage.

The tornadoes ripped 23 Oklahoma towns. But the brunt of the winds was felt in Meeker, 30 miles east of Oklahoma City, where 26 persons were injured and 30 homes destroyed.

Three-Inch Rainfall
A torrential 3-inch rain ending Sunday in Oklahoma city capped a hectic week for the Sooner state which saw five straight days of scattered tornadoes and 10½ inches of drought-breaking rain.

Meanwhile, cold Canadian air moved across the Plain States. The cold air extended over the Upper Great Lakes, the Upper Mississippi Valley and as far South as Amarillo, Texas, where temperatures reached near freezing.

The Pope raised his arms repeatedly in blessing and many times bent far down as though he sought to touch one or another of the children. He appeared to be as deeply moved as they were.

"Our soul," he said in his first words to them, "has been flooded with a tumult of joy... thank you, dear children..."

Mundt Rules Out Suggestion That Doors Be Closed

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—A swelling chorus of senatorial complaints that the McCarthy-Army hearings are hurting the Republican party, the Senate and the country, spurred efforts today to cut them short.

But Chairman Mundt (R-S.D.) ruled out suggestions he said had been made that the doors be closed and that future witnesses be heard in private.

"I suggested that in the beginning but it can't be done now," he said.

At the same time Mundt said the Senate has found no workable formula to save time by avoiding excursions into what some members regard as strictly side issues or to reduce the number of questions asked witnesses.

Stevens To Resume Stand

And Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) would give no assurances on how long he and his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, intend to keep Secretary of Army Stevens under questioning.

Stevens resumes the stand tomorrow in the eighth day of televised hearings into his charges that McCarthy and his aides sought to use the power of the Senate Investigating Committee to get favored Army treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, a former consultant to the committee.

McCarthy has charged, in turn, that Stevens and his associates sought, through holding Schine as a "hostage," to halt an investigation of alleged Communists in the Army.

McCarthy said upon his return to Washington from weekend speaking engagements in Wisconsin that he saw no indication of a shortened hearing.

"Waste Of Time," McCarthy Says

Asked if any "pressure" had been exerted by anyone to shorten the hearing, McCarthy said he had not been approached in that regard because he hadn't initiated the hearing. He said he considers the hearing "the greatest waste of time" he has experienced since he has been in Washington, but since it has been started the committee should go through with it.

Asked to estimate how long he thought the hearing would continue, McCarthy replied that at the present rate it probably would extend into 1970.

"By 1970," he said with a smile, "we should know how a private got promoted to private."

Mitchell Says Party Won't Back Roosevelt Even If Nominated

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Stephen A. Mitchell, chairman of the Democratic National Committee said tonight that even if James Roosevelt is nominated as Democratic candidate for Congress in California the national party will not support him.

And Mitchell suggested that if President Eisenhower would step in and "set the tone as to whether" Secretary of the Army Stevens "appealed" Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) the current Senate Investigations subcommittee hearing on the dispute could be ended more quickly.

The Democratic leader made the comments in answer to questions on the NBC TV-show "Meet the Press."

NAPLES, Italy, May 2 (AP)—Cries of joy, ringing of bells and fireworks swept through this Italian port tonight at the announcement from Naples Cathedral that the blood of its patron, St. Januarius, had finally softened and melted—a day late.

The blood of the martyred saint should have liquefied yesterday, as it usually has done on the first Saturday of May the past four centuries. When it has failed to melt Naples has had bad luck.

Even a delay is considered an ill omen. A delay of several hours in 1940 was followed by Benito Mussolini's disastrous declaration of war.

Yesterday, after hours of prayers, the blood was still solid. Marcello Cardinal Mimmi, archbishop of Naples, urged the people to pray again today.

Devout Neapolitans assembled at the cathedral this morning once more, attended mass and again prayed. Some of the more extolable and worried began to scream.

"Deliver us from the evil eye, St. Januarius," some cried.

"Do not abandon us, St. Januarius," wept others.

At 10:30 a.m. Msgr. Giuseppe Cattaneo, custodian of the blood, which is kept in two silver phials, inspected it.

"It is not melted," he told the weeping, praying people, who at that hour numbered about 10,000.

St. Januarius, bishop of Benevento was beheaded at Pozzuoli, near Naples in the year 305. His body is buried in Naples' Cathedral. His blood is kept in a side chapel of the cathedral.

Only three times in the past has it failed to melt before the prayers of Neapolitans. The last time was in 1944, when Vesuvius erupted. It failed to liquefy in 1884. That was followed by an epidemic of cholera. In 1527, when it also failed to melt, bubonic plague wiped out about half of Naples' population.

U. S., Pacific Allies Confer On Indochina

Meeting Of ANZUS Partners Is Called By Secretary Dulles

GENEVA, May 2 (AP)—The partners in the United States, Australia, New Zealand pact in the Pacific conferred secretly on the threatening Indochina situation today as Communist-led Vietnam forces there drastically reduced the defenses of the heroic Dien Bien Phu garrison by renewed mass attacks.

In Geneva an unofficial Communist source hinted at fresh efforts to get France into truce negotiations alone with Vietnam and the leaders of the French-sponsored Viet Nam state.

The informant said a direct appeal by France for a truce to evacuate wounded from Dien Bien Phu — which the French have urged — could lead easily to general cease-fire talks. He insisted such talks must take place in Geneva, and not on the battlefield as suggested by the French.

Dulles Called Conference

Secretary of State Dulles sought the conference of the ANZUS (Australia, New Zealand, United States) partners as he prepared to fly to Italy tomorrow for a talk with Premier Mario Scelba on the Trieste dispute with Yugoslavia.

On the eve of his departure from the Geneva Conference, British newspapers voiced concern over that they said was a split that had developed here among the Western Powers. Some of the British press strongly criticized the secretary of state and said he had "climbed down" from his stiff position demanding a united military front in Southeast Asia.

The ANZUS meeting was believed to have been concerned with speeding along a Far Eastern security pact against communism, similar to NATO in the Atlantic area.

Main Conference In Recess

Today's meeting, called by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, was the principal development during the weekend recess of the main Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina.

Dulles asked Australia's Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey and New Zealand's Foreign Minister T. Clifton Webb to meet with him less than 24 hours before the American diplomat was due to leave Switzerland to meet Italian Prime Minister Mario Scelba in Milan.

Dulles called the meeting — technically known as the ANZUS Council — under Section 3, which reads: "The parties will consult together when, in the opinion of any of them, the territorial interests, political independence, or security of any of the parties is threatened in the Pacific."

Four Are Slain In Ohio Shooting

CANTON, Ohio, May 2 (AP)—A 72-year-old laborer shot and killed his wife, son and daughter today and barricaded himself in his house. The Stark County sheriff riddled the house with bullets, and the man was found shot to death.

Lying across his breast was a high powered rifle, and police could not immediately say whether or not he had taken his own life.

Police identified the man as William Henry.

Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Anthony said neighbors called and reported Henry was blasting away at his family with a high-powered .30 caliber rifle.

When police arrived they found his 65-year-old wife, Daisy, lying dead on the rear lawn, 20 feet from the small, white frame house.

On a small gravel bank nearby, police found the bodies of Elmer Henry, 39, and his sister, Mrs. Ethel Lowry, 33. Neighbors said Mrs. Lowry was shot while trying to restrain her father.

Sheriff Harry W. Grossglus, who arrived after Henry had barricaded the door to his house, fired two tear gas shells into a window.

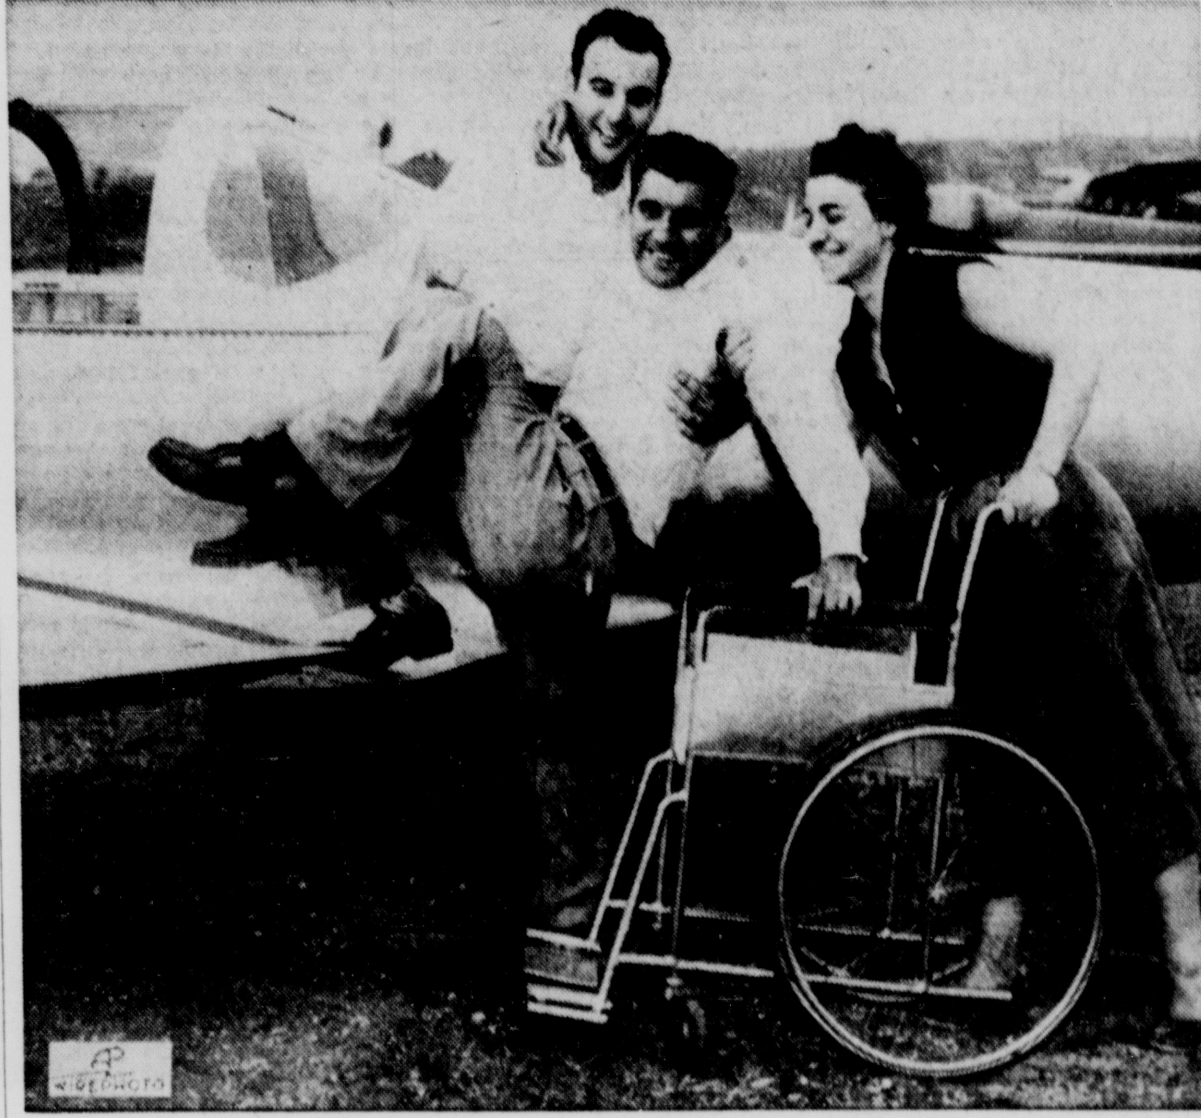

Then the sheriff peppered the house, Anthony said, with blasts from a sub-machine gun and a rifle.

When police went inside, they found Henry, a big-boned, gray-haired man, sitting upright in a large easy chair, his rifle across his breast.

From Wings To Wheelchair

Sammy Gregorio, 27, Philadelphia, Pa., a former Marine who was paralyzed from the neck down nearly nine years ago in the Pacific, is lifted to a waiting wheelchair from the small plane he piloted, unaccompanied, to Camden, N. J., from Richmond, Va. Gregorio, since his paralyzing injury, has regained the use of two tiny muscles in each arm, giving him enough control to pilot a plane. Helping him into the wheelchair are his brother, Mario, and his sister, Mrs. Mary DiGiacomo, both of Philadelphia.

Suits To Regain 'Windfalls' Seen By Housing Boss

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole, reversing an earlier opinion, said today he believes the government may be able to recover some of the financial "windfalls" which he says builders got under the federal home insurance program.

There's no certainty about the prospects of recovering the money, Cole said, but "we are looking into the possibility very carefully."

Interviewed in the NBC TV-program "American Forum of the Air," the housing administrator said at first he thought nothing illegal was involved in the gains made by builders.

Builders Pocketed Difference

"It's possible," he said, "that some contracts which are in effect may have forbidden liquidating dividends to be paid by the corporations. Therefore it is quite possible that suits may be brought to recover."

Cole referred to his previous charge that some builders were able to set up corporations with small investments and obtain government - insured loans for far above the actual cost of apartment houses they built with the loans. By paying liquidating dividends to themselves, he said, the builders were able to pocket the difference.

The total of these "windfalls" were estimated by Cole at 75 million dollars. That figure had been brought out when an investigation into the housing program was started.

Committees, FBI Investigate

Any money recovered, he said, should be applied to reducing the mortgage involved in each case.

The scandals disclosed by Cole in the government's apartment construction and home repair insurance programs have brought several resignations or firings in the Federal Housing Administration.

Two congressional committees are investigating the matter, and Cole said the FBI is looking for any criminal violations involved while the Internal Revenue Service is searching for any tax violations.

WE Employees Defer Threatened Walkout

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—A spokesman for 17,000 Western Electric employees announced tonight a threatened midnight strike had been deferred while negotiations continued.

The union spokesman said no agreement had been reached but there would be no strike tonight. The union members will continue to "work without a contract," the union officials said.

Taking part in the talks behind closed doors were representatives of District 10 of the CIO Communications Workers of America and of Western Electric, the manufacturing affiliate of the Bell Telephone System.

"Impulsive" Thief Steals Fire Truck

CHICAGO, May 2 (AP)—Firemen from Engine Co. 4 noticed something was missing when they returned from a fire call early today. It was a fire engine.

Police found the engine parked at the curbside several blocks from the fire station, with a man at the wheel.

He said he took the shiny red truck on impulse, but refused to identify himself. He was identified as Martin McCarrick, 47, and was taken to Henrotin Hospital for examination.

Congress To Air Ike's Atom Plan

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower's proposal to share U.S. atomic secrets with allied countries comes up for public scrutiny in Congress this week.

The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee starts public hearings Wednesday on a comprehensive new blueprint for controlling atomic energy which was drawn up to carry out the President's recommendations.

The new bill provides: 1. Authority for the President and the Atomic Energy Commission, under congressional watching to give allies information about the performance and use of atomic weapons.

2. Similar authority to share information on using atomic energy for peacetime purposes.

3. A broad loosening of domestic restrictions to permit private industry to operate atomic facilities as a means of expediting the development of peacetime power.

Income Tax Exemption Hike Is Overdue, Economist Says

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Prof. Alvin H. Hansen, widely known Harvard political economist, says an $800 personal income tax exemption would only equal in purchasing power the $500 exemption in effect in 1944.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) said today he has forwarded a statement of Hansen's views to the Senate Finance Committee for study in connection with its consideration of a general tax revision bill now before it.

Hansen urges an increase in the income tax exemption and recommends elimination from the measure of a provision which would cut taxation on income from dividends. Both recommendations are in line with demands of many Democrats in the Senate, and are opposed by the administration.

An opposing view came from the Committee on Federal Tax Policy, a private group headed by former

Guard Watching Ball Game Lets Convicts Escape

ATMORE, Ala., May 2 (AP)—Eighteen short-term Negro convicts escaped from Atmore State Prison farm today while a tower guard was engrossed in a baseball game but nine have been recaptured.

Warden S. W. Hixon said the number who fled through a hole they cut in a steel mesh fence was determined by a roll call of prisoners.

Dogs "Running Few"

"We believe the rest of them are hiding out around the prison," Hixon told newsmen. "We have the dogs running a few of them and we expect all of them to be rounded up by morning."

Hixon made the report as he prepared to go into the woods to direct the search for fugitives. He said the names of all involved in the escape would not be available until Monday.

The warden charged tower guard Henry Sawyers with "plain carelessness" and fired him on the spot.

Guard Engrossed In Game

Hixon said Sawyers was so engrossed in watching the baseball game between teams of Atmore prison and Kilby State Prison at Montgomery that escaping convicts were able to cut the fence near his tower.

Kilby was leading 3-2 in the fourth inning when the escape halted the game.

It was the second break at Atmore in recent months. On Feb. 4 nine prisoners tunneled under a building and escaped but all were recaptured within about two weeks.

Jordan Cabinet Resigns

AMMAN, Jordan, May 2 (AP)—Jordan's Cabinet resigned unexpectedly today "due to present conditions."

Under Secretary of the Treasury Roswell Magill and financed partly by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation.

That group called for a balanced budget as the first step, if necessary by adding a manufacturers' sales tax on everything except food and medicine, and said that when income taxes can be cut, this should be done by lowering rates rather than increasing exemptions.

Hansen said a $200 increase in the exemption—raising it to the $800 level advocated by Sen. George (D-Ga.) and others — is "realistic and justifiable" because of the rise in living costs during the past decade. He added:

"If $500 was a reasonable personal exemption in 1944, when we needed a very broad income tax base to finance the war, then the present day equivalent in real terms, namely $800, must be regarded as fair and reasonable."

Zanuck Sets Record
HOLLYWOOD, May 2 (AP)—Producer Darryl F. Zanuck announced today that his studio has purchased "The Greatest Story Ever Told," the late Fulton Oursler's story of the life of Christ, for a cumulative price of two million dollars.

Zanuck said this will be the largest amount ever paid for motion picture rights to a story.

Reds Launch All-Out Attack On Stronghold

Vietminh Overruns Three Strongpoints And Part Of Fourth

HANOI, Indochina, May 2 (AP)—The Red-led masses of Vietnam, unleashing a new do-or-die assault on Dien Bien Phu, overran three strongpoints and occupied part of a fourth today in their attempt to wipe out France's Gibraltar of the Indochina jungle.

The human wave attacks severely reduced the defenses of the staunchly held fortress on the 51st day of determined attack.

So close was the fighting that French tanks firing from the heart of the fortress, could be used but little.

It was heavy machine guns, hand grenades, the bayonet and the knife in close quarter combat in a maze of trenches, barbed wire and dug-outs. So confused was the fighting that it was hard to say exactly how close the enemy battalions had crept to Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries' dug-in headquarters.

Six-To-One Red Odds
For a fortnight the French have been saying the situation was "very serious." There was no official adjective to describe the situation tonight.

But it seemed far from realistic to expect the little circular fort to beat off the charging Vietnam thousands hour after hour.

The beleaguered fortress, under mounting siege more than five months, appeared in great danger of falling under the pressure of six-to-one enemy odds attacking in suicidal waves against superior French fire power.

The Vietnam launched their mightiest assault of the seven-year Indochina War at 10 p. m. last night (local time 10 a.m. EST yesterday) after lobbing thousands of heavy mortar shells onto the main French defense complex embracing five strong points.

The rebels centered their heavy artillery fire upon softening up the isolated strongpoint "Isabelle," in the south, three miles from the heart of the fortress.

"Human Sea" Attacks
Amid shrill bugle calls, the Vietnam rose like a storm from foxholes and trenches on the rim of the French Union fortress.

A French high command spokesman said "human seas" of rebel forces swept into the French strongholds in the vital northeast sector, on the east and the west.

The fall of these outposts cut down the defenses in the main complex and radically reduced in diameter the fortifications that yesterday covered only a mile.

(An earlier Hanoi dispatch from the semi-official French Press Agency said counterattacking defenders recaptured two of the strongpoints. But Paris sources said this apparently was only part of a see-saw battle for the strongpoints which finally ended in their fall.)

CIO Steel Union To Map Strategy

PITTSBURGH, May 2 (AP)—This is a week of decision for the CIO United Steel Workers. The big union's 170-member Wage Policy Committee meets here Thursday and Friday to plot strategy for coming negotiations with the nation's steel industry.

President David J. McDonald and other union officials have already notified the industry they want to negotiate a new contract. The current pact, signed in 1952 after a crippling 53-day strike, expires June 30.

The big union, which has enjoyed seven rounds of wage increases since World War II, must sit down at the bargaining table with an industry which for the first time in years is feeling the pinch of a business lull.

The decline in operations has caused layoffs and a good deal of part-time work for many of the union's 1,250,000-odd members.

McDonald, himself, said recently there are 189,344 workers furloughed from basic and fabricating plants. He said another 257,026 employees are working only part time.

U. S., Pacific Allies Confer On Indochina

Meeting Of ANZUS Partners Is Called By Secretary Dulles

GENEVA, May 2 (AP)—The partners in the United States, Australia, New Zealand pact in the Pacific conferred secretly on the threatening Indochina situation today as Communist-led Vietnam forces there drastically reduced the defenses of the heroic Dien Bien Phu garrison by renewed mass attacks.

In Geneva an unofficial Communist source hinted at fresh efforts to get France into truce negotiations alone with Vietnam and the leaders of the French-sponsored Viet Nam state.

The informant said a direct appeal by France for a truce to evacuate wounded from Dien Bien Phu — which the French have urged—could lead easily to general cease-fire talks. He insisted such talks must take place in Geneva, and not on the battlefield as suggested by the French.

Dulles Called Conference

Secretary of State Dulles sought the conference of the ANZUS (Australia, New Zealand, United States) partners as he prepared to fly to Italy tomorrow for a talk with Premier Mario Scelba on the Trieste dispute with Yugoslavia.

On the eve of his departure from the Geneva Conference, British newspapers voiced concern over that they said was a split that had developed here among the Western Powers. Some of the British press strongly criticized the secretary of state and said he had "climbed down" from his stiff position demanding a united military front in Southeast Asia.

The ANZUS meeting was believed to have been concerned with speeding along a Far Eastern security pact against communism, similar to NATO in the Atlantic area.

Main Conference In Recess

Today's meeting, called by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, was the principal development during the weekend recess of the main Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina.

Dulles asked Australia's Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey and New Zealand's Foreign Minister T. Clifton Webb to meet with him less than 24 hours before the American diplomat was due to leave Switzerland to meet Italian Prime Minister Mario Scelba in Milan.

Dulles called the meeting—technically known as the ANZUS Council—under Section 3, which reads: "The parties will consult together when, in the opinion of any of them, the territorial interests, political independence, or security of any of the parties is threatened in the Pacific."

Four Are Slain In Ohio Shooting

CANTON, Ohio, May 2 (AP)—A 72-year-old laborer shot and killed his wife, son and daughter today and barricaded himself in his house. The Stark County sheriff riddled the house with bullets, and the man was found shot to death.

Lying across his breast was a high powered rifle, and police could not immediately say whether or not he had taken his own life.

Police identified the man as William Henry.

Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Anthony said neighbors called and reported Henry was blasting away at his family with a high-powered .30 caliber rifle.

When police arrived they found his 65-year-old wife, Daisy, lying dead on the rear lawn, 20 feet from the small, white frame house. On a small gravel bank nearby, police found the bodies of Elmer Henry, 39, and his sister, Mrs. Ethel Lowry, 33. Neighbors said Mrs. Lowry was shot while trying to restrain her father.

Sheriff Harry W. Grossglauss, who arrived after Henry had barricaded the door to his house, fired two tear gas shells into a window. But they failed to bring Henry out.

Then the sheriff peppered the house, Anthony said, with blasts from a sub-machine gun and a rifle.

When police went inside, they found Henry, a big-boned gray-haired man, sitting upright in a large easy chair, his rifle across his breast.

From Wings To Wheelchair

Sammy Gregorio, 27, Philadelphia, Pa., a former Marine who was paralyzed from the neck down nearly nine years ago in the Pacific, is lifted to a waiting wheelchair from the small plane he piloted, unaccompanied, to Camden, N. J., from Richmond, Va. Gregorio, since his paralyzing injury, has regained the use of two tiny muscles in each arm, giving him enough control to pilot a plane. Helping him into the wheelchair are his brother, Mario, and his sister, Mrs. Mary DiGiacomo, both of Philadelphia.

Suits To Regain 'Windfalls' Seen By Housing Boss

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole, reversing an earlier opinion, said today he believes the government may be able to recover some of the financial "windfalls" which he says builders got under the federal home insurance program.

There's no certainty about the prospects of recovering the money, Cole said, but "we are looking into the possibility very carefully."

Interviewed in the NBC TV-program "American Forum of the Air," the housing administrator said at first he thought nothing illegal was involved in the gains made by builders.

Builders Pocketed Difference

"It's possible," he said, "that some contracts which are in effect may have forbidden liquidating dividends to be paid by the corporations. Therefore it is quite possible that suits may be brought to recover."

Cole referred to his previous charge that some builders were able to set up corporations with small investments and obtain government - insured loans for far above the actual cost of apartment houses they built with the loans. By paying liquidating dividends to themselves, he said, the builders were able to pocket the difference.

The total of these "windfalls" were estimated by Cole at 75 million dollars. That figure had been brought out when an investigation into the housing program was started.

Committees, FBI Investigate

Any money recovered, he said, should be applied to reducing the mortgage involved in each case. The scandals disclosed by Cole in the government's apartment construction and home repair insurance programs have brought several resignations or firings in the Federal Housing Administration.

Two congressional committees are investigating the matter, and Cole said the FBI is looking for any criminal violations involved while the Internal Revenue Service is searching for any tax violations.

WE Employees Defer Threatened Walkout

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—A spokesman for 17,000 Western Electric employees announced tonight a threatened midnight strike had been deferred while negotiations continued.

The union spokesman said no agreement had been reached but there would be no strike tonight.

The union members will continue to "work without a contract," the union officials said. Taking part in the talks behind closed doors were representatives of District 10 of the CIO Communications Workers of America and of Western Electric, the manufacturing affiliate of the Bell Telephone System.

"Impulsive" Thief Steals Fire Truck

CHICAGO, May 2 (AP)—Firemen from Engine Co. 4 noticed something was missing when they returned from a fire call early today. It was a fire engine.

Police found the engine parked at the curbside several blocks from the fire station, with a man at the wheel.

He said he took the shiny red truck on impulse, but refused to identify himself. He was identified as Martin McCarrick, 47, and was taken to Henrotin Hospital for examination.

Congress To Air Ike's Atom Plan

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower's proposal to share U.S. atomic secrets with allied countries comes up for public scrutiny in Congress this week. The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee starts public hearings Wednesday on a comprehensive new blueprint for controlling atomic energy which was drawn up to carry out the President's recommendations.

The new bill provides: 1. Authority for the President and the Atomic Energy Commission, under congressional watching to give allies information about the performance and use of atomic weapons.

2. Similar authority to share information on using atomic energy for peacetime purposes.

3. A broad loosening of domestic restrictions to permit private industry to operate atomic facilities as a means of expediting the development of peacetime power.

Income Tax Exemption Hike Is Overdue, Economist Says

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Prof. Alvin H. Hansen, widely known Harvard political economist, says an $800 personal income tax exemption would only equal in purchasing power the $500 exemption in effect in 1944.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) said today he has forwarded a statement of Hansen's views to the Senate Finance Committee for study in connection with its consideration of a general tax revision bill now before it.

Hansen urges an increase in the income tax exemption and recommends elimination from the measure of a provision which would cut taxation on income from dividends.

Both recommendations are in line with demands of many Democrats in the Senate, and are opposed by the administration.

An opposing view came from the Committee on Federal Tax Policy, a private group headed by former

Guard Watching Ball Game Lets Convicts Escape

ATMORE, Ala., May 2 (AP)—Eighteen short-term Negro convicts escaped from Atmore State Prison farm today while a tower guard was engrossed in a baseball game but nine have been recaptured.

Warden S. W. Hixon said the number who fled through a hole they cut in a steel mesh fence was determined by a roll call of prisoners.

Dogs "Running Few"

"We believe the rest of them are hiding out around the prison," Hixon told newsmen. "We have the dogs running a few of them and we expect all of them to be rounded up by morning."

Hixon made the report as he prepared to go into the woods to direct the search for fugitives. He said the names of all involved in the escape would not be available until Monday.

The warden charged tower guard Henry Sawyers with "plain carelessness" and fired him on the spot.

Guard Engrossed In Game

Hixon said Sawyers was so engrossed in watching the baseball game between teams of Atmore prison and Kilby State Prison at Montgomery that escaping convicts were able to cut the fence near his tower.

Kilby was leading 3-2 in the fourth inning when the escape halted the game.

It was the second break at Atmore in recent months. On Feb. 4 nine prisoners tunneled under a building and escaped but all were recaptured within about two weeks.

CIO Steel Union To Map Strategy

PITTSBURGH, May 2 (AP)—This is a week of decision for the CIO United Steel Workers. The big union's 170-member Wage Policy Committee meets here Thursday and Friday to plot strategy for coming negotiations with the nation's steel industry.

President David J. McDonald and other union officials have already notified the industry they want to negotiate a new contract. The current pact, signed in 1952 after a crippling 53-day strike, expires June 30.

The big union, which has enjoyed seven rounds of wage increases since World War II, must sit down at the bargaining table with an industry which for the first time in years is feeling the pinch of a business lag.

The decline in operations has caused layoffs and a good deal of part-time work for many of the union's 1,250,000-odd members. McDonald, himself, said recently there are 189,344 workers furloughed from basic and fabricating plants. He said another 257,026 employees are working only part time.

Zanuck Sets Record

HOLLYWOOD, May 2 (AP)—Producer Darryl F. Zanuck announced today that his studio has purchased "The Greatest Story Ever Told," the late Fulton Oursler's story of the life of Christ, for a cumulative price of two million dollars.

Zanuck said this will be the largest amount ever paid for motion picture rights to a story.

Reds Launch All-Out Attack On Stronghold

Vietminh Overruns Three Strongpoints And Part Of Fourth

HANOI, Indochina, May 2 (AP)—The Red-led masses of Vietnam, unleashing a new do-or-die assault on Dien Bien Phu, overran three strongpoints and occupied part of a fourth today in their attempt to wipe out France's Gibraltar of the Indochina jungle.

The human wave attacks severely reduced the defenses of the staunchly held fortress on the 51st day of determined attack.

So close was the fighting that French tanks firing from the heart of the fortress, could be used but little.

It was heavy machine guns, hand grenades, the bayonet and the knife in close quarter combat in a maze of trenches, barbed wire and dug-outs. So confused was the fighting that it was hard to say exactly how close the enemy battalions had crept to Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries' dug-in headquarters.

Six-To-One Red Odds

For a fortnight the French have been saying the situation was "very serious." There was no official adjective to describe the situation tonight.

But it seemed far from realistic to expect the little circular fort to beat off the charging Vietminh thousands hour after hour.

The beleaguered fortress, under mounting siege more than five months, appeared in great danger of falling under the pressure of six-to-one enemy odds attacking in suicidal waves against superior French fire power.

The Vietminh launched their mightiest assault of the seven-year Indochina War at 10 p. m. last night (local time 10 a. m. EST yesterday) after lobbing thousands of heavy mortar shells onto the main French defense complex embracing five strong points.

The rebels centered their heavy artillery fire upon softening up the isolated strongpoint "Isabelle," in the south, three miles from the heart of the fortress.

"Human Sea" Attacks

Amid shrill bugle calls, the Vietminh rose like a storm from foxholes and trenches on the rim of the French Union fortress.

A French high command spokesman said "human seas" of rebel forces swept into the French strongholds in the vital northeast sector, on the east and the west.

The fall of these outposts cut down the defenses in the main complex and radically reduced in diameter the fortifications that yesterday covered only a mile.

(An earlier Hanoi dispatch from the semi-official French Press Agency said counterattacking defenders recaptured two of the strongpoints. But Paris sources said this apparently was only part of a see-saw battle for the strongpoints which finally ended in their fall.)

Sen. Sybert Once Criticized Byrd, Dorsey Declares

(By The Associated Press)

George P. Mahoney's running mate said today State Sen. C. Ferdinand Sybert had once criticized Dr. H. C. Byrd's administration of the University of Maryland as "a one-man show."

The statement came from Philip H. Dorsey Jr., who is running for the Democratic nomination for attorney general on the Mahoney-for-governor ticket. Sybert is campaigning for the same nomination on the Byrd-for-governor slate.

Dorsey said Sybert's criticism of Byrd was made in talk before the Ellicott City Kiwanis Club in June, 1951.

He quoted the state senator as saying passage of a bill to give the university home rule "would be like putting the university in Byrd's pocket." The bill was passed over a gubernatorial veto.

"Byrd has taken over lock, stock and barrel," Dorsey quoted Sybert. "The university is now 'big business' with a budget of more than 15-million dollars each year, of which the taxpayers of the state are contributing approximately one-half, but it's more or less of a one-man show because when Curley Byrd wants something, his will is law. The Board of Regents (of the university) has relegated itself to the position of a 'rubber stamp.'" Dorsey issued the statement shortly after the currently dominant Democratic faction in Baltimore County, headed by Commission Chairman Michael J. Birmingham and State Sen. John Grason Turnbull, announced it will support Mahoney for nomination in the June 28 primary.

Earlier in the weekend Mahoney had said the naming of Arthur H. Brice as chairman of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission was a "political" appointment and had linked Brice to the Byrd camp.

Terming Brice "an amiable gentleman and an astute politician," the candidate charged Brice "lacks the training, experience or even the attitude to qualify" for his post.

Third Of State's Senators Won't Be Back Next Year

By LOU PANOS

BALTIMORE, May 2 (P)—The last log had been rolled, the final vote had been taken, and the 1954 Maryland Legislature had just become history when a seasoned politician dropped into the Statehouse newsroom last March with a prophecy.

"I predict," he predicted, "that at least five of the seven senators from Baltimore City won't be back here next year."

Since it was fairly certain even then that two of the city senators didn't plan to run again, the politician was really saying he thought three others would be beaten at the polls.

If you believe this and couple it with some known figures, you might conclude that at least every third face in the 1955 Maryland Senate will be a new one.

For eight of the 29 present members, including the two Baltimoreans who were expected to do so, have let the deadline pass without filing for renomination.

Six of the unrenominated seats belong to Democrats—State Sens. C. Ferdinand Sybert of Howard County, Edward Turner of Queen Annes, Francis X. Dippel of Baltimore's Third District, Louis T. Hofferbert of Baltimore's First, Mrs. Margaret J. Crothers of Cecil, and Robert H. Lawder of Harford.

Sybert and Turner are shooting for bigger game this time, Sybert running on the Byrd-for-governor ticket as candidate for the attorney general nomination and Turner trying for nomination in the First Congressional District.

Dippel, who filibustered for nearly two days in the 1953 session in a futile attempt to block approval of a bill to lower the tax on mutual savings bank deposits, isn't quitting politics. He has been mentioned as a possible candidate in next year's primary for mayor of Baltimore.

Hofferbert and Lawder say they want to get back to their businesses on a fulltime basis. Mrs. Crothers had served out the unexpired term of her husband, the late Sen. Omar D. Crothers Jr.

Another Petrov Case Headed Off By Reds?

PARIS, May 2 (P)—A second secretary of the Soviet embassy was bundled off to Moscow from Paris last week in a manner that led observers here to suspect the Russians had headed off another Petrov case such as developed in Australia.

Reliable sources told the following story today: On Wednesday, April 28, Sergei Vinogradov, Russian ambassador to France, hopped into the plane at Geneva where he was attending the big power conference on Asian problems. He flew to Paris, where Sergei Volokitine, second secretary of the embassy, went aboard with the ambassador and the plane flew off Thursday at dawn to Geneva only long enough to leave Vinogradov, but Volokitine was down on to Moscow.

The transfer was all done so quickly nobody here seems to have learned about it until the operation was completed.

Astronomers Taking Chemical Inventory

BERKELEY, Calif., May 2 (P)—University of California astronomers disclosed today they are taking a chemical inventory of the universe.

The idea is to find out how much hydrogen, helium, iron, uranium and so on exists in the stars, the galaxies and the incredibly vast dust and gas clouds of observable space and how these chemicals react with each other.

More knowledge of the chemical elements in stars will help astronomers to evolve theories about how some of them were formed.

Woman Wrestler Wins, Stays Single

BOMBAY, India, May 2 (P)—Hundreds in Baroda watched today as Hamida Banu, a woman wrestler, beat Baba Pahlawan, a male matman, in her third bout to decide who should be her husband.

The heavyweights clashed with the promise the woman to marry him if he got the better of her and an undertaking by Pahlawan to retire from the wrestling arena if he went down before her.

The bout lasted one minute 34 seconds, when the referee declared him out of Hamida's wedding range. Pahlawan immediately announced he had had his third match.

He was the third wrestler to undertake the strange wooing of Hamida who since February has downed two other men wrestlers, Khadga Singh, a Sikh, and another Hindu from Calcutta.

Treiber To Be Sentenced Soon

Associate Judge George Henderson indicated Saturday that he will sentence Frank Treiber, 448 Bedford Street, this week in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Treiber pleaded guilty to a 15-count indictment of bookmaking when he appeared in Circuit Court April 19. Sentencing was deferred at that time because Treiber was ill.

Treiber was released from Memorial Hospital to attend the trial and was returned there following the court action.

The judge said Treiber has been released from the hospital and is ready to appear for sentencing.

The local man and Curtis W. Masenheimer, Southern Hotel, were arrested March 19 in a raid conducted on the Queen City Pool Room, Liberty Street, by Lt. James E. Van, head of the Detective Bureau of the Police Department, and five patrolmen.

Various pieces of gambling paraphernalia were confiscated.

On the day of the trial Masenheimer was in the Court House, but before the hearing was called he disappeared. His bond of $500 posted by a local businessman was forfeited.

A third man indicted by the Grand Jury April 6 in connection with this case, Anthony Antonakos, 511 Marshall Street, was found not guilty on a charge of knowing gambling was in operation on premises he owned.

Walsh Serves As Toastmaster

Former Attorney General William C. Walsh was toastmaster at one of the largest meetings of attorneys ever held in Western Maryland when over 100 lawyers convened Thursday night in Hagerstown.

The session was one of four bar association meetings in various sections of the state sponsored by the Maryland Commission on Judicial Administration appointed by Gov. McKeldin. The meeting Thursday was to seek opinions on the constitutional amendment for a judge in each county of the state and to discuss other pertinent questions.

Representing the commission at the session was Richard Cleveland, Baltimore, son of the late President Grover Cleveland. Other notables attending the session were Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish and Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Marris, of the Fourth Judicial Circuit. Walter C. Capper and D. Lindley Sloan, both former judges of the circuit here, also attended, and there were judges from other Western Maryland districts also. Approximately 30 lawyers were present from this county.

LONACONING, MD.
Republican Candidate For House of Delegates of Allegany County

Robert Lee Jeffrey, 23, of Lonaconing, Md., has filed his papers for the Republican nomination for the House of Delegates. Bob, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. S. Jeffrey, is the youngest of nine children and was born in Barton but later moved to Lonaconing. Bob attended and was graduated from Central High School. He was active in sports and was chosen on the Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer all-star team. Bob is a member of the Church of the Brethren, Westernport, and is at the present working at the Church World Service Center at Nappanee, Indiana, which deals with overseas Relief and Rehabilitation.

Mr. Jeffrey, if elected, pledges to fight for industry and lower taxes for Allegany County. "It is my firm opinion that the lack of industry is the most serious of the problems we now face in Allegany County. We all know that many people have had to move out of Allegany County to areas where they can secure employment. Therefore, I will work for and support appropriate legislation that will encourage the establishment of industry in Allegany County." If you feel that this program is needed, work for Bob Jeffrey in the primary election of June 28th. Political advertisement published by authority of the candidate.

County Commissioners Say They Welcome Tax Probe

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has written to Deedley K. Nice, chairman of the State Tax Commission, concerning a letter which they say has been sent to the state agency asking an investigation of assessments on property in the Westernport area. The letter from the county board to Nice follows:

"It has come to the attention of the county commissioners that William R. Seaber, president of the Westernport Taxpayers' League, has made a written appeal to your commission, dated April 23, requesting an investigation of recent assessments in the Westernport-Luke area on the ground that the same have been discriminatory, excessive and unreasonable.

"Please be advised that the county commissioners are reviewing all protested assessments in this area whether the protest was made before the date of finality for the same or not, and that to date in the course of this review, which is not yet complete, the commissioners have found nothing that would indicate that the proposed new assessments are discriminatory, excessive or unreasonable although as in all cases of review there have been a number of modifications.

"The county commissioners propose to notify each taxpayer who has protested his assessment of the results of this review in order that his legal right to appeal might be properly safeguarded.

"The purpose of this letter is to advise you that the county commissioners, regardless of their own findings to date, will interpose no objection to the requested investigation but would rather welcome such investigation and cooperate in any way in the course of it, if the commission should authorize or conduct the same."

HOW AMERICA IS CHANGING

Americans are eating better... and with less work in the kitchen

TODAY, Americans are eating 34% more meat, fish and poultry per person than in 1940. We're consuming 13% more dairy products (excluding butter).

And the food industry has been taking over more jobs once done in the kitchen. Hundreds of foods are now available in pre-packaged, precooked, canned or frozen form, in mixes or concentrates. Our consumption of commercial frozen foods is now almost eight times as great as in 1940.

The fact that we are eating better—and with less kitchen work—is just one of many changes that have been occurring in America. In fact, our whole way of living has changed. We're earning more money. More of us own our homes than pay rent. We're raising larger families. More children are going to college. We're living longer.

And the life insurance business is keeping pace and is constantly growing more flexible to meet our new needs.

For example, more and more families own life insurance to provide a regular income to replace that of the breadwinner in case he were to die. Other families own it to assure funds for their children's education... or to help cover an unpaid mortgage... or to provide retirement income.

A suggestion: Have your needs or circumstances changed? Have you looked over your life insurance to see how it fits in with your way of living and the goals you and your family have set for yourselves?

Memorial Day Observance In Tri-Towns To Be Community Affair

Many Groups Take Part In Annual Event

Parade, Ceremony
Set For May 31

PIEDMONT—Memorial Day in the Tri-Towns will be observed on Monday, May 31, it was decided at a meeting Saturday evening at the Piedmont Council Chamber.

Potomac Camp No. 5, United Spanish War Veterans sponsors, plan a parade, will decorate veterans graves and present a program at the Memorial Building in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

The parade will form in the vicinity of the Piedmont High School at 9 a. m. and proceed to march at 9:30 to Westernport to the cemetery where a program will be held.

J. William Beck was elected general chairman. The meeting was opened by Charles Ross, a former commander of the USWV in the absence of Edwin Burke, commander.

Norris Bruce was elected treasurer and George W. Daddsman, secretary.

Norris Bruce, treasurer, gave his report of receipts and disbursements for last year. He said that $443.79 had been collected last year the most that had ever been collected in any year for the Memorial Day expenses. Out of the donations, 90 grave markers for $391.41 were purchased for graves of Spanish, W. I. W. W. II and Korean War veterans and they now should have enough to last several years, Bruce stated. The $52.38 balance was transferred to the Memorial Day fund.

At the suggestion of W. D. Simpson, music instructor of Bruce High School of Westernport it was authorized to purchase four American flags and standards to be placed on Memorial Building to add to the dignity of the affair.

The Mayor and Commissioners will make necessary repairs to Memorial Building and will be repaid by the Memorial Day Committee.

Mrs. Marie Lyons, president of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit of Victory Post 155 of Westernport, Mrs. Elta See, president of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit of Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, here and Mayor Charles S. Dayton were named chairmen of finance in their respective communities. They will name assistants for the collection of donations toward the expense of carrying out the Memorial Day program.

Other committees appointed by Chairman Beck include, Mayor Okey E. Michael, Westernport, and John F. Rose, program and securing speaker; T. J. Martin, and Howard Blackburn, Westernport; Forrest Biggs, Elmer VanPelt and Harry Hackett, grave markers and flags; W. D. Simpson, and Raymond Lee.

The flowers for the veterans graves will be solicited by the Piedmont Woman's Club, Social Welfare Club and Westernport and Luke Civic Club. Members of the Boy and Girl Scout troops will collect them.

W. D. Simpson, Norris Bruce and Elmer Van Pelt will make arrangements for decorating the platform of Memorial Building.

Organization of the Tri-Towns were represented by Howard Blackburn, Victory Post 155 American Legion, Westernport; Mayor Okey E. Michael and Commissioner Harry Richards, Town of Westernport; Elmer Van Pelt, Tri-Towns Fire Company and Piedmont Lodge No. 1120, Loyal Order of Moose; Rev. William Wilkinson and Ervin Haines, Lafayette Lodge No. 3, Knights of Pythias; W. D. Simpson, Bruce High School, Westernport; Harry Hackett, Philos Lodge No. 91, IOOF, and Potomac Fire Company, Westernport; C. A. Boyles and Charles Ross, Potomac Camp No. 5, United Spanish War Veterans; Norris Bruce, Piedmont Company No. 10, Uniform Rank of Knights of Pythias and J. William Beck, Westernport and Luke Lions Club.

Another meeting will be held at the Council Chamber Saturday May 15, at 7 p. m.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

MRS. EMMERICH FUEHRINGER

ROWLESBURG—Mrs. Katherine Fuehringer, 49, wife of Emmerich Fuehringer, was found dead Thursday at her home here.

Preston County authorities said she was found hanging from a register in the living room ceiling. A verdict of suicide was issued.

Dr. J. C. Arnett said Mrs. Fuehringer had been dead several hours when he was summoned to the home by her husband.

Officials said the deceased had suffered from a nervous disorder but had seemed improved recently. Neighbors reported having last seen Mrs. Fuehringer in the garden of her home at approximately 9 a. m. Thursday.

Born in Hungary, Mrs. Fuehringer and her husband came to this country in December, 1951. Their daughter, Miss Therese Fuehringer, a student nurse at Fairmont (W. Va.) General Hospital, had come to the states in July, 1950, as an exchange student through the Brethren Church Service Commission.

Miss Fuehringer, who graduated from Rowlesburg High School in 1951, made her home with Dr. and Mrs. Arnett until her parents arrived.

Surviving, besides her husband and daughter, are a sister and two brothers, all of whom reside in the American Zone in Germany.

MRS. ESTON YOKUM

PETERSBURG—Mrs. Cynthia Elizabeth Yokum, 73, of Mouth of Seneca, died Saturday at her home after an illness of several months. She was born February 16, 1881, a daughter of the late Isaac and Hannah (Harmann) Judy.

Memorial Day Observance In Tri-Towns To Be Community Affair

Many Groups Take Part In Annual Event

Parade, Ceremony
Set For May 31

PIEDMONT—Memorial Day in the Tri-Towns will be observed on Monday, May 31, it was decided at a meeting Saturday evening at the Piedmont Council Chamber.

Potomac Camp No. 5, United Spanish War Veterans sponsors, plan a parade, will decorate veterans graves and present a program at the Memorial Building in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

The parade will form in the vicinity of the Piedmont High School at 9 a. m. and proceed to march at 9:30 to Westernport to the cemetery where a program will be held.

J. William Beck was elected general chairman. The meeting was opened by Charles Ross, a former commander of the USWV in the absence of Edwin Burke, commander.

Norris Bruce was elected treasurer and George W. Daddysman, secretary.

Norris Bruce, treasurer, gave his report of receipts and disbursements for last year. He said that $443.79 had been collected last year the most that had ever been collected in any year for the Memorial Day expenses. Out of the donations, 90 grave markers for $391.41 were purchased for graves of Spanish, W. W. I., W. W. II and Korean War veterans and they now should have enough to last several years, Bruce stated. The $32.38 balance was transferred to the Memorial Day fund.

At the suggestion of W. D. Simpson, music instructor of Bruce High School of Westernport it was authorized to purchase four American flags and standards to be placed on Memorial Building to add to the dignity of the affair.

The Mayor and Commissioners will make necessary repairs to Memorial Building and will be repaid by the Memorial Day Committee.

Mrs. Marie Lyons, president of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit of Victory Post 135 of Westernport, Mrs. Elta See, president of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit of Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, here and Mayor Charles S. Davton were named chairmen of finance in their respective communities. They will name assistants for the collection of donations toward the expense of carrying out the Memorial Day program.

Other committees appointed by Chairman Beck include, Mayor Okey E. Michael, Westernport, and John F. Rose, program and securing speaker; T. J. Martin, and Howard Blackburn, parade; Forrest Biggs, Elmer VanPelt and Harry Hackett, grave markers and flags; W. D. Simpson, and Raymond Lee.

The flowers for the veterans graves will be solicited by the Piedmont Woman's Club, Social Welfare Club and Westernport and Luke Civic Club. Members of the Boy and Girl Scout troops will collect them.

W. D. Simpson, Norris Bruce and Elmer Van Pelt will make arrangements for decorating the Platform of Memorial Building.

Organization of the Tri-Towns were represented by Howard Blackburn, Victory Post 135 American Legion, Westernport; Mayor Okey E. Michael and Commissioner Harry Richards, Town of Westernport; Elmer Van Pelt, Tri-Towns Fire Company and Piedmont Lodge No. 1120, Loyal Order of Moose; Rev. William Wilkinson and Ervin Haines, Lafayette Lodge No. 3, Knights of Pythias; W. D. Simpson, Bruce High School, Westernport; Harry Hackett, Philos Lodge No. 91, IOOF, and Potomac Fire Company, Westernport; C. A. Boyles and Charles Ross, Potomac Camp No. 5, United Spanish War Veterans; Norris Bruce, Piedmont Company No. 10, Uniform Rank of Knights of Pythias and J. William Beck, Westernport and Luke Lions Club.

Another meeting will be held at the Council Chamber Saturday May 15, at 7 p. m.

Valley High Organizes Jr. Town Meeting Group

LONA CONING—The Junior Town meeting has completed its organization and plans for a first discussion meeting. The constitution was drawn up by Joan Abbott, Shirley Smith and Martha Ann Staup.

The students in charge of the Handbook of the Constitution were Elsie Gattens, George Ternent, Eleanor Timney, Dixie Lee Truly and Evelyn Weir. The officers elected are: Marlene Castle, president and Shirley Smith, secretary.

The Advisory Council has selected the topic of "Teeth" for discussion. The panel members are Moderator, Robert Moore; Antonyms, Bob Humphrey; Florine and the Teeth, Jimmy Powers; Structure of the Teeth, Clara Jean Dick; and Tooth Decay and Food, Helene Snyder.

Plans to introduce procedures consist of a Town Crier, Marvin Llewellyn; a skit by Marlene Castle with George Ternent, Elsie Gattens, Jo Ann Carter, Mary Braskey, Joan Abbott, Eleanor Timney, Bob Wilson, Norma Jean Fazenbaker, Frances Schiereth, Jean Ann Fairgrieve, Ruth Freeman; and a historical introduction by Shirley Schardt.

The Representative Group consisting of two pupils from each sophomore, Junior and Senior home room has charge of "buzz" session to formulate questions.

Dr. George J. Richards Jr., the town physician, served as Advisory Consultant to help the panel with answering difficult questions. A choral group of Juniors in charge Retha Derham, Helen Whitman, Betty Thomas, Colleen Shockey, Elsie Coburn, Nancy Crawford, Faye Kallmyer, Darlene Fazenbaker, Joyce Smith, Maxine Russell, Juanita Deniker, Aurora Mowbray, Rose Clark and Joan Robertson.

Joseph L. Derry played for the professional and recreational of the student body who attended the organization meeting in the school auditorium.

Holes In The Curtain Should Be Enlarged

A pattern is discernible in recent defections of Soviet officials which is a fertile field for interesting speculation about the internal health of the Russian security organization formerly headed by the late Beria. In three important and highly publicized flights—one each in Japan, Australia and Germany—the escapees were members of the MVD, the Russian secret police organization.

Both Petrov, who with his wife precipitated the break between Russia and Australia, and Rastvorov, who was an official in the Soviet diplomatic group in Japan, were fairly high up in the scale of authority.

The Russian who spilled his story to U. S. Army authorities in Germany was also an official, although a lesser light. It is known by members of the Washington press corps that there have been other defections which have not made the headlines.

All of these men are apparently willing to tell all and they have a receptive audience. The interrogation is necessarily exhaustive and will require time. Intelligence agents must always be wary of the double-cross, which is a classic intelligence maneuver aimed at planting false information in enemy hands.

But whatever else the interrogators get, they are being provided fascinating glimpses behind the iron curtain. The flight of MVD officials may be proof that there are serious stresses in the former domain of Beria. Perhaps a former "Beria man" now must live in constant fear of his neck. Systematic purges to eliminate the supporters of a man fallen from power and liquidated are a Russian specialty.

If the chorus of anger from Moscow can be taken at face value, the Russians have been badly hurt, both from an intelligence standpoint and in the eyes of the world. Small holes are appearing here and there in the Red's security curtain. Every effort should be made to enlarge them.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Lead And Zinc

There has been considerable discussion during the past year or so on the relationship of metals and minerals to the effort to lower the American tariff. Some internationalists, such as Harold Stassen, are so anxious to lift the economies of other nations that they, perhaps unwittingly, hurt our own. As in most things, a sense of proportion seems to be indicated.

I cite lead and zinc as objects worthy of our attention because should we go to war, these essential commodities will have to be mined on the American continents and may have to be transported on land once the sea lanes are closed down, as they well might be.

Lead and zinc are produced widely in the United States, including such states as New York and New Jersey, which one does not think of as mining states. The principal lead and zinc-producing areas are, of course, in the Rocky Mountain States.

The lead and zinc industry is always in peril from the dumping of low-priced imports on our market. This can result in the closing of American mines. There are those who might assert that if the American miners cannot produce these commodities in competition, let us say, with African miners, the Americans should shut down. On the other hand, in time of war, should the sea lanes be unavailable, shall we have to have a wildcat frenzy to reopen these mines and to get them working again?

The United States Defense Materials Procurement Agency is reported to have advanced up to $680,000 for the development of Algerian lead production. The company in Constantine, Algeria, is French-owned and it was reported that it would repay the loan by deliveries of lead. This might or might not be a good deal for this country, provided the American mines remain open and are available in time of war.

Otto Herres, chairman of the National Lead and Zinc Committee, quotes a news item from Northern Rhodesia which gives some picture (in 1952 and it is not likely to have changed much) of the American miners' difficulties:

"The African Mine Workers Union called its 23,000 members out on strike today to support demands for a two shillings and eightpence (35c) per shift raise. . . . During negotiations the union rejected a fourpence (5c) per shift raise offer by the companies. The average pay of an African underground worker is four pounds sterling ($11.20) a month plus room and board."

American wages for comparable workers are approximately $360 a month. Wages run about $1.94 an hour. In a word, the American mine worker receives for one day's work about the same amount as an African receives in a month.

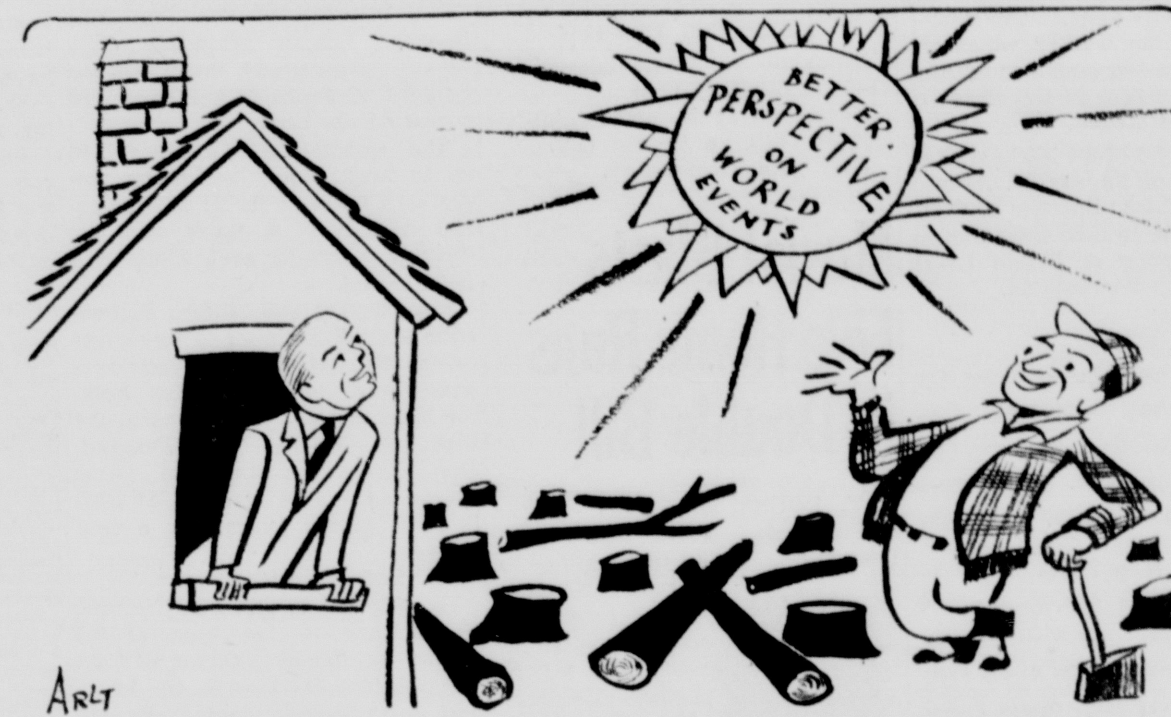

Our economy has become so complex because of the condition of permanent war that it is impossible to view any problem from a peacetime standpoint. For instance, the Malay Peninsula and adjacent countries are important to us not only politically but because Singapore controls our supply of raw rubber. In time of peace, whatever the political conditions in Malaya, we should probably be able to purchase supplies of raw rubber; but in modern warfare, the sea lanes could be shut down or imperiled either by the schnorkel submarines or the air power of the Soviet Union. Then, we should again become wholly dependent upon synthetic rubber. No matter how optimistic a politician may be about the future, prudence dictates that a country such as ours must be prepared for such an emergency.

The same is true about lead, zinc, vanadium, titanium and every other important metal and mineral. It is foolhardy to trust to our ability to keep the sea lanes open. We may or we may not; we shall only know about that should war actually take place.

The usual State Department argument that American industry can match low wage-scale industries abroad because Americans are more efficient is incorrect. A coolie can operate a semi-automatic machine as competently as a Harvard graduate and I have seen the coolies do it in China. That is not the issue. The issue is how can we keep our mines open if foreign governments dump goods into this country without regard to price. The only practical answer today is that in any industry where the danger of shutting down is real and imminent, the tariff should be used to keep the American industry open.

It Can Make All The Difference In The World!

Secretary Stevens' Growth And Direction Impressive

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON
The ignoble drama of Joseph R. McCarthy versus the U. S. Army must be mystifying to the great majority of the American audience, who do not have the hidden clue to the plot of these unending hearings.

For once in a way, Sen. Everett Dirksen was right when he remarked that "the real weakness" of the Army case was Secretary Stevens' long record of extraordinary attempts to appease Sen. McCarthy at almost any cost. But the secretary of the army was not alone in trying to mollify the Wisconsin senator. In fact he was following the approved administration line at the time.

The Eisenhower high command took a long time learning that you could not appease McCarthy. They needed 14 months to make the inevitable choice between abjectly surrendering to him or fighting him vigorously. As late as the beginning of the present session of Congress, the President and vice president were still trying, in their own ways, to do just the sort of thing that poor Stevens also tried to do.

Alert newspaper readers may remember how Vice President Nixon sought a meeting with McCarthy at the opening of the congressional session, and later passed the word that "Joe was going to be good." The story Nixon gave the Capitol Hill reporters had hardly hit the front pages, before McCarthy responded in characteristic fashion.

Nixon's hopeful theme had been that McCarthy was going to give up Communist-hunting, and would concentrate instead on investigating corruption in the Truman administration. "Whoever said that is a liar," was the amiable comment of McCarthy, who knew quite well that Nixon was the direct source of the original report.

Ike Has A Try
Even after the vice president had been publicly charged with untruth, the President himself had a try. McCarthy was pressingly invited to the White House for a long, private talk with Eisenhower. Like Nixon, Eisenhower thought his friendly persuasions had made the desired impression. The White House staff was jubilant, until McCarthy showed his contempt for Eisenhower's overture by telling all and sundry at the Capitol, "Ike's really learning, now he's asking my advice."

To this kind of thing, add the many refusals of the White House to stand squarely behind administration officials attacked by McCarthy, as in the Stassen case. Add further that the secretary of the army seems to be one of the administration's leading innocents-at-large. It then becomes a lot clearer why poor Stevens kowtowed to McCarthy and his staff with such humble persistence.

The least of Stevens' gestures were such follies as having his photograph taken with Pvt. G. David Schine, putting up McCarthy and company at his own expense at his New York club, and giving McCarthy his official plane. Consider, for instance, the scene at Fort Monmouth at which Stevens indignantly testified. Stevens was there in October with McCarthy and committee counsel Roy Cohn. On a tour of the post, the army secretary had to decide who could be admitted to a top secret laboratory.

He ruled that those could be let in who had been duly elected to public office. This included McCarthy but left out Roy Cohn,

Future Looks Bright In Effort To Control Allergies

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Can allergies be prevented? Probably not, but their appearance may be delayed if the most common irritants are avoided from infancy on. The allergic family ought to take heed because sensitivities are passed from one contact with another. The less contact with these offenders, the longer it takes for asthma, hay fever, eczema, hives, or allergic rhinitis to develop.

House dust is a common offender but it can be minimized by using rubber mattresses and pillows and avoiding rugs, draperies, and overstuffed chairs in the bedroom. Linoleum makes a good floor covering, and a vacuum cleaner and damp mops and dust cloths are best for housework. Molds and fungi are potential offenders and, to discourage mildew, keep the basement and entire house dry.

Cosmetics, particularly those containing orris root, often act as sensitizers. Youngsters should stay away from individuals with colds because of the possibility of developing bacterial allergy. Certain foods, particularly wheat, corn, and eggs (especially raw eggs), may lead to trouble in the future. This does not mean that these foods are to be eliminated entirely because they are excellent sources of energy and nutrition. Instead, they ought to be spaced in order to delay the production of antigens.

Since animal dander is a causative agent in allergy, becoming involved with horses, cats, and dogs is inadvisable. Pets are fun, but it is easier for the parents to refuse to buy one than to be forced to give up the animal should the child become asthmatic.

Skin tests may unearth future allergies. If a positive reaction to dander or grain is noted, for example, the youngster should avoid the country and in addition be discouraged from thinking of farming and ranching as a career. Children who are potential hay fever victims, because they react to ragweed, must not be sent to a summer camp during the late summer or early fall, in an area where these weeds are pollinating. Young adults sensitive to dust should not plan a career in farming, baking, upholstery, sandblasting, mining, or handling furs. These precautions also hold should asthma develop.

The future in allergy looks bright. In recent months, many of our most distinguished special-like to see in print what everybody is applying for."

Radford's Assurance Of Air Force Aid For French In Indochina Backfires

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Behind the Indochina hemming and hawing at Geneva is a conversation with Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which has made French Premier Laniel furious.

It wasn't publicized, but Laniel had formally asked for the intervention of the U. S. Air Force a little over a week ago. He did this, however, only after Admiral Radford had told him in advance that President Eisenhower would immediately agree.

But when the formal French request got to Washington, Eisenhower did just the opposite. He flatly said no—on the ground that he did not have authority without the prior consent of Congress.

What actually happened was that Radford has been wanting the United States to intervene directly in the Indochinese War while other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff have not. The French premier, talking to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, did not know about this deadlock in Washington. Also Eisenhower felt that Congress and the American people would vigorously oppose the use of the American Air Force in Indochina, and he didn't want to take the political consequences.

Therefore, he told Premier Laniel that the United States would intervene only if Great Britain joins us, which of course is just not going to happen. Winston Churchill had already told like in a telephone conversation that Britain would not cooperate.

Net result of the French conversations has made a virtual French surrender much more likely, and with it the likely fall of the middle-of-the-road Laniel government.

Western "Giveaway"
With just a little fanfare as possible, Secretary of the Interior McKay has given the green light to a reversal of the 50-year-old Teddy Roosevelt Reclamation Act.

In a letter dated April 6 to Congressman Miller of Nebraska, McKay has okayed the same principle for reclamation and water-power as has been applied to the graft-ridden FEA. Western senators who have examined the McKay plan say it amounts to the biggest giveaway since New Deal days and is a complete reversal of Eisenhower policy. They plan battle to block the policy in Congress.

But its chief provisions will be completely ignored. These provisions, considered all-important in the building up of the West, but bitterly fought by the power companies and big land-owners, are:

1. Preference to public bodies such as municipalities and REA co-ops, rather than private utilities, in the sale of power.

2. A 160-acre limit on the amount of land any one owner can have under water from a federal reclamation project. Big land-owners have been trying to knock this limitation out for years.

To get around these two important reclamation policies, Secretary McKay has okayed a plan to give power on the Stanislaus River in California to a group of private irrigation developers plus Pacific Gas and Electric. In addition, the federal government will hand this group $10,370,000 in grants and loans under a special bill introduced by Congressman Leroy Johnson with Senators Knowland and Kuchel, Republicans.

Reclamation Act Ignored
On top of this, Congressman Miller of Nebraska has introduced a bill making this applicable to all of the 17 western states. The Reclamation Act would be completely bypassed and ignored.

Furthermore, not only Secretary McKay personally, but the Budget Bureau and the Eisenhower administration have made this official policy.

Background of this important byplay is that about a year ago, the Oakdale and South San Joaquin irrigation districts signed a contract with Pacific Gas and Electric to set up three power plants on the Stanislaus River, and using this contract as security, they negotiated a loan of $4,700,000. The excess water, they planned, would be used for irrigation.

Just at this time, however, Secretary Humphrey's hard-money policy upset the appercart. The banks refused to go through with the loan.

Whereupon the California promoters called on Undersecretary of the Interior Ralph Tudor for help, and Tudor finally came through with a plan not only to give the Stanislaus River to the private groups, but also hand them $10,370,000 in loans and grants.

Unlike the Reclamation Act, which provided for repayment of water power loans with interest within 50 years, the new McKay plan is extremely nebulous as to the time of repayment and the rate of interest.

St. Lawrence Seaway
It was two congressmen who oppose the St. Lawrence Seaway who finally switched a vote in the Rules Committee in order to permit that long-delayed project to be debated this week.

For weeks, the St. Lawrence Seaway has been deadlocked inside the Rules Committee, 6 to 6. Finally, a congressman who opposes the seaway, Tom Steed, Oklahoma Democrat, went before the Rules Committee and argued that because Canada is one of our best friends we could not afford to bottle up the project in committee. At least, he argued, we should permit the project to come to a vote on the floor of the House of Representatives. The Rules Committee, of course, has the power to bottle up legislation or report it out for full debate.

This argument appealed to Congressman John E. Lyle, Democrat, of Corpus Christi, Tex., a member of the Rules Committee, who hitherto had voted against reporting the St. Lawrence out of committee. It was Lyle who changed his vote, even though he opposed the St. Lawrence, and decided that in deference to Canada, the full House of Representatives should vote on this important measure.

Bombs And Births

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass.—As an introduction to this week's column, let me say that I know nothing about A-bombs or H-bombs. My present thinking has been due to two things:

Two Important Developments

(1) The Atomic Energy Commission has permitted one of its engineers to visit us in Central Florida and exhibit some of the uranium being produced from phosphate clays. The recovery is very small per ton of clay, but there are billions of tons. This makes our part of Florida an important source of uranium. This should add to the attractions of the stock of some of our established phosphate companies.

(2) The President has made reference to bombs in a recent speech and at his news conferences. This also is significant. What is the reason for this exhibiting of our uranium resources and the constant references to the H-bomb? Then we also have the pictures of the H-bomb tests in the Pacific, and the various newspaper and magazine articles released thereon. These developments make me suspicious that important news is in the offing. Something big is going on behind the scenes which none of us realize, and it may be announced before this column gets printed. It may be that the President is trying to prepare us for such an event.

Something More To Think About

The A-bomb has been expensive to make. It is unofficially reported that such a bomb may cost $50,000. On the other hand, the reverse may be true of the H-bomb. After the new plant near Augusta is complete, it may be possible to make H-bombs for $100 each. I don't know, and am only reporting rumors.

Another story going about is that the new H-bomb will make obsolete a good portion of the famous Oak Ridge plant in Tennessee. Very revolutionary events are pending. The H-bomb, owing to its greater destructiveness at less cost, may be of much more importance than the A-bomb, although the latter is needed to set off the H-bomb. Furthermore, this H-bomb may be a factor—perhaps the deciding factor—in bringing about world peace for the next 50 years.

Relocating Our Cities

Two points I am willing to forecast: One is that the H-bomb will result ultimately in moving the White House executive offices, the Senate and House of Representatives, plus the Supreme Court, to the center of the United States. Washington, D. C. is now at its peak of importance. It could begin to decline in population and prestige. Washington real estate may now be a "good sell."

The other point is that the various departments will someday be located in other cities within a radius of 50 miles. The Defense Department will be at one city; the Treasury Department will be at another city; while the Justice Department will be at another. In other words, the nine major departments will be in nine smaller cities located like satellites about the central city where the executive, legislative, and judicial roots of the American tree are to be transplanted. The only defense against enemy A-bombs or H-bombs is decentralization. Hence, factories will also be decentralized. The Central West and South will increase in population and prestige. Real estate in such mid-western cities may now be a "good purchase."

Recent FBI Notices

Added to the events mentioned above, we note the remarkable notice sent out by J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI, to be on the watch for heavy suitcases. These may carry A-bombs and their lead insulations.

As a result of all the above, I forecast further important international conferences which will be aimed to bring about world peace at least for the life of all living today. These conferences, which started at Geneva on April 26, will discuss China and other Far East problems as well as Russia. They may even lead to an international discussion of birth control, which is intimately connected with the elimination of war.

Another proverb proved by that .02 per cent drop in living costs is that precious things are done up in small packages.

England is experimenting with rubber boxing ring floor. Will lightweight or heavyweights prove to have more bounce to the ounce?

E. G. G. postcards his wife tossed out her favorite flower pot when she learned they were enameled in Chinese Red.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Four other members of our solar system—Mars, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn—appear in the May evening sky. Just a family reunion?

Who says this isn't truly the Air Age? A 16-year-old Owasco, Mich., girl pilots her own airplane but her dad won't let her drive the family car. Too dangerous.

Zadok Dumkopf says the mara-ger of his favorite ball club has switched his players around so much they need a road map to find first base.

Grandpappy Jenkins says he can understand why those "morning glory" rookies fail to make good in night baseball games—but they don't look so hot in day-time contests, either!

The ancients used clocks operated by water—Fathographs. Come freezing weather—and did time stand still?

Another proverb proved by that .02 per cent drop in living costs is that precious things are done up in small packages.

It Can Make All The Difference In The World!

Secretary Stevens' Growth And Direction Impressive

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON
The ignoble drama of Joseph R. McCarthy versus the U. S. Army must be mystifying the great majority of the American audience, who do not have the hidden clue to the plot of these unending hearings.

For once in a way, Sen. Everett Dirksen was right when he remarked that "the real weakness" of the Army case was Secretary Stevens' long record of extraordinary attempts to appease Sen. McCarthy at almost any cost. But the secretary of the army was not alone in trying to mollify the Wisconsin senator. In fact he was following the approved administration line at the time.

The Eisenhower high command took a long time learning that you could not appease McCarthy. They needed 14 months to make the inevitable choice between abjectly surrendering to him or fighting him vigorously. As late as the beginning of the present session of Congress, the President and vice president were still trying, in their own ways, to do just the sort of thing that poor Stevens also tried to do.

Alert newspaper readers may remember how Vice President Nixon sought a meeting with McCarthy at the opening of the congressional session, and later passed the word that "Joe was going to be good." The story Nixon gave the Capitol Hill reporters had hardly hit the front pages, before McCarthy responded in characteristic fashion.

Nixon's hopeful theme had been that McCarthy was going to give up Communist-hunting, and would concentrate instead on investigating corruption in the Truman administration. "Whoever said that is a liar," was the amiable comment of McCarthy, who knew quite well that Nixon was the direct source of the original report.

Ike Has A Try
Even after the vice president had been publicly charged with untruth, the President himself had a try. McCarthy was pressing invited to the White House for a long, private talk with Eisenhower. Like Nixon, Eisenhower thought his friendly persuasions had made the desired impression. The White House staff was jubilant, until McCarthy showed his contempt for Eisenhower's overture by telling all and sundry at the Capitol, "Ike's really learning, now he's asking my advice."

To this kind of thing, add the many refusals of the White House to stand squarely behind administration officials attacked by McCarthy, as in the Stassen case. Add further that the secretary of the army seems to be one of the administration's leading innocents-at-large. It then becomes a lot clearer why poor Stevens kowtowed to McCarthy and his staff with such humble persistence.

The least of Stevens' gestures were such follies as having his photograph taken with Pvt. G. David Schine, putting up McCarthy and company at his own expense at his New York club, and giving McCarthy his official plane. Consider, for instance, the scene at Fort Monmouth about which Stevens indignantly testified. Stevens was there in October with McCarthy and committee counsel Roy Cohn. On a tour of the post, the army secretary had to decide who could be admitted to a top secret laboratory.

He ruled that those could be let in who had been duly elected to public office. This included McCarthy but left out Roy Cohn, Cohn immediately staged one of his Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang acts. According to Stevens, Cohn said in substance:

"This means war. I have access to the FBI files when I want them. They did this on purpose to embarrass me. We will really investigate the Army now!"

Used Excessive Courtesy
But did Stevens answer this repellent 27-year-old in the way that dignity and propriety so obviously demanded? He did not. There was no "apology," Stevens further testified. That was not the right word "to use on the darning thing." Stevens just did his very best to "smooth over the feelings of Mr. Cohn." Contrast this with the kind of "smoothing" Cohn would have got from Henry L. Stimson.

In this manner, Secretary Stevens and his Army Department counselor, John Adams (who of course imitated Stevens) not only offered McCarthy and his staff all sorts of excessive courtesy. They also went far beyond the injunction to turn the other cheek. With little sense of dignity, they positively asked to be slapped.

As a result of this exaggeration of the administration's policy of "being nice to Joe," Pvt. Schine was shockingly coddled. There can be no doubt about that. Yet all this foolishness is less important than the points that are being lost to sight in the current McCarthy hearings. There are three of these points.

First, McCarthy and company did not just ask for coddling for Schine. They insisted that basic rules be broken for him. Second, Secretary Stevens put his foot down at just this point. He would do anything else, but he would not make the required sacrifice of vital principle. Third, both Stevens and the Eisenhower administration stood up and fought, when they finally learned the old lesson that appeasement of men like McCarthy never pays.

The direction is right. The growth is impressive. That is what finally counts.

Future Looks Bright In Effort To Control Allergies

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Can allergies be prevented? Probably not, but their appearance may be delayed if the most common irritants are avoided from infancy on. The allergic family ought to take heed because sensitivities are passed from one generation to another. The less contact with these offenders, the longer it takes for asthma, hay fever, eczema, hives, or allergic rhinitis to develop.

House dust is a common offender but it can be minimized by using rubber mattresses and pillows and avoiding rugs, draperies, and overstuffed chairs in the bedroom. Linoleum makes a good floor covering, and a vacuum cleaner and damp mops and dust cloths are best for housework. Molds and fungi are potential offenders and, to discourage mildew, keep the basement and entire house dry.

Cosmetics, particularly those containingorris root, often act as sensitizers. Youngsters should stay away from individuals with colds because of the possibility of developing bacterial allergy. Certain foods, particularly wheat, corn, and eggs (especially raw eggs), may lead to trouble in the future. This does not mean that these foods are to be eliminated entirely because they are excellent sources of energy and nutrition. Instead, they ought to be spaced in order to delay the production of antigens.

Since animal dander is a causative agent in allergy, becoming involved with horses, cats, and dogs is inadvisable. Pets are fun, but it is easier for the parents to refuse to buy one than to be forced to give up the animal should the child become asthmatic.

Skin tests may unearth future allergies. If a positive reaction to dander or grain is noted, for example, the youngster should avoid the country and in addition be discouraged from thinking of farming and ranching as a career. Children who are potential hay fever victims, because they react to ragweed, must not be sent to a summer camp during the late summer or early fall, in an area where these weeds are pollinating. Young adults sensitive to dust should not plan a career in farming, baking, upholstering, sandblasting, mining, or handling furs. These precautions also hold should asthma develop.

The future in allergy looks bright. In recent months, many of our most distinguished special-

like to see in print what everybody is applying for."

Radford's Assurance Of Air Force Aid For French In Indochina Backfires

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Behind the Indochina hemming and hawing at Geneva is a conversation with Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which has made French Premier Laniel furious.

It wasn't publicized, but Laniel had formally asked for the intervention of the U. S. Air Force a little over a week ago. He did this, however, only after Admiral Radford had told him in advance that President Eisenhower would immediately agree.

But when the formal French request got to Washington, Eisenhower did just the opposite. He flatly said no—on the ground that he did not have authority without the prior consent of Congress.

What actually happened was that Radford has been wanting the United States to intervene directly in the Indochinese War while other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff have not. The French premier, talking to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, did not know about this deadlock in Washington. Also Eisenhower felt that Congress and the American people would vigorously oppose the use of the American Air Force in Indochina, and he didn't want to take the political consequences.

Therefore, he told Premier Laniel that the United States would intervene only if Great Britain joins us, which of course is just not going to happen. Winston Churchill had already told Ike in a telephone conversation that Britain would not cooperate.

Net result of the French conversations has made a virtual French surrender much more likely, and with it the likely fall of the middle-of-the-road Laniel government.

Western "Giveaway"
With just a little fanfare as possible, Secretary of the Interior McKay has given the green light to a reversal of the 50-year-old Teddy Roosevelt Reclamation Act.

In a letter dated April 6 to Congressman Miller of Nebraska, McKay has okayed the same principle for reclamation and water-power as has been applied to the graft-ridden FHA. Western senators who have examined the McKay plan say it amounts to the biggest giveaway since New Deal days and is a complete reversal of Eisenhower policy. They plan battle to block the policy in Congress.

But its chief provisions will be completely ignored. These provisions, considered all-important in the building up of the West, but bitterly fought by the power companies and big land-owners, are:

1. Preference to public bodies such as municipalities and REA co-ops, rather than private utilities, in the sale of power.

2. A 160-acre limit on the amount of land any one owner can have under water from a federal reclamation project. Big land-owners have been trying to knock this limitation out for years.

To get around these two important reclamation policies, Secretary McKay has okayed a plan to give power on the Stanislaus River in California to a group of private irrigation developers plus Pacific Gas and Electric. In addition, the federal government will hand this group $10,370,000 in grants and loans under a special bill introduced by Congressman Leroy Johnson with Senators Knowland and Kuchel, Republicans.

Reclamation Act Ignored
On top of this, Congressman Miller of Nebraska has introduced a bill making this applicable to all of the 17 western states. The Reclamation Act would be completely bypassed and ignored.

Furthermore, not only Secretary McKay personally, but the Budget Bureau and the Eisenhower administration have made this official policy.

Background of this important byplay is that about a year ago, the Oakdale and South San Joaquin irrigation districts signed a contract with Pacific Gas and Electric to set up three power plants on the Stanislaus River, and using this contract as security, they negotiated a loan of $4,700,000. The excess water, they planned, would be used for irrigation.

Just at this time, however, Secretary Humphrey's hard-money policy upset the applecart. The banks refused to go through with the loan.

Whereupon the California promoters called on Undersecretary of the Interior Ralph Tudor for help, and Tudor finally came through with a plan not only to give the Stanislaus River to the private groups, but also hand them $10,370,000 in loans and grants.

Unlike the Reclamation Act, which provided for repayment of water power loans with interest within 50 years, the new McKay plan is extremely nebulous as to the time of repayment and the rate of interest.

St. Lawrence Seaway
It was two congressmen who oppose the St. Lawrence Seaway who finally switched a vote in the Rules Committee in order to permit that long-delayed project to be debated this week.

For weeks, the St. Lawrence Seaway has been deadlocked inside the Rules Committee, 6 to 6. Finally, a congressman who opposes the seaway, Tom Steed, Oklahoma Democrat, went before the Rules Committee and argued that because Canada is one of our best friends we could not afford to bottle up the project in committee. At least, he argued, we should permit the project to come to a vote on the floor of the House of Representatives. The Rules Committee, of course, has the power to bottle up legislation or report it out for full debate.

This argument appealed to Congressman John E. Lyle, Democrat, of Corpus Christi, Tex., a member of the Rules Committee, who hitherto had voted against reporting the St. Lawrence out of committee. It was Lyle who changed his vote, even though he opposed the St. Lawrence, and decided that in deference to Canada, the full House of Representatives should vote on this important measure.

Bombs And Births

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass.—As an introduction to this week's column, let me say that I know nothing about A-bombs or H-bombs. My present thinking has been due to two things:

Two Important Developments

(1) The Atomic Energy Commission has permitted one of its engineers to visit us in Central Florida and exhibit some of the uranium being produced from phosphate clays. The recovery is very small per ton of clay, but there are billions of tons. This makes our part of Florida an important source of uranium. This should add to the attractions of the stock of some of our established phosphate companies.

(2) The President has made reference to bombs in a recent speech and at his news conferences. This also is significant. What is the reason for this exhibiting of our uranium resources and the constant references to the H-bomb? Then we also have the pictures of the H-bomb tests in the Pacific, and the various newspaper and magazine articles released thereon. These developments make me suspicious that important news is in the offing. Something perhaps is going on behind the scenes which none of us realize, and it may be announced before this column gets printed. It may be that the President is trying to prepare us for such an event.

Something More To Think About

The A-bomb has been expensive to make. It is unofficially reported that such a bomb may cost $50,000. On the other hand, the reverse may be true of the H-bomb. After the new plant near Augusta is complete, it may be possible to make H-bombs for $100 each. I don't know, and am only reporting rumors.

Another story going about is that the new H-bomb will make obsolete a good portion of the famous Oak Ridge plant in Tennessee. Very revolutionary events are pending. The H-bomb, owing to its greater destructiveness at less cost, may be of much more importance than the A-bomb, although the latter is needed to set off the H-bomb.

Furthermore, this H-bomb may be a factor—perhaps the deciding factor—in bringing about world peace for the next 50 years.

Relocating Our Cities

Two points I am willing to forecast: One is that the H-bomb will result ultimately in moving the White House executive offices, the Senate and House of Representatives, plus the Supreme Court, to the center of the United States. Washington, D. C. is now at its peak of importance. It could begin to decline in population and prestige. Washington real estate may now be a "good sell."

The other point is that the various departments will someday be located in other cities within a radius of 50 miles. The Defense Department will be at one city; the Treasury Department will be at another city; while the Justice Department will be at another. In other words, the nine major departments will be in nine smaller cities located like satellites about the central city where the executive, legislative, and judicial roots of the American tree are to be transplanted. The only defense against enemy A-bombs or H-bombs is decentralization. Hence, factories will also be decentralized. The Central West and South will increase in population and prestige. Real estate in such mid-western cities may now be a "good purchase."

Recent FBI Notices

Added to the events mentioned above, we note the remarkable notice sent out by J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI, to be on the watch for heavy suitcases. These may carry A-bombs and their lead insulations.

As a result of all the above, I forecast further important international conferences which will be aimed to bring about world peace at least for the life of all living today. These conferences, which started at Geneva on April 26, will discuss China and other Far East problems as well as Russia. They may even lead to an international discussion of birth control, which is intimately connected with the elimination of war.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Lead And Zinc

There has been considerable discussion during the past year or so on the relationship of metals and minerals to the effort to lower the American tariff. Some internationalists, such as Harold Stassen, are so anxious to lift the economies of other nations that they, perhaps wittingly, hurt our own. As in most things, a sense of proportion seems to be indicated.

I cite lead and zinc as objects worthy of our attention because should we go to war, these essential commodities will have to be mined on the American continents and may have to be transported on land once the sea lanes are closed down, as they well might be.

Lead and zinc are produced widely in the United States, including such states as New York and New Jersey, which one does not think of as mining states. The principal lead and zinc-producing areas are, of course, in the Rocky Mountain States.

The lead and zinc industry is always in peril from the dumping of low-priced imports on our market. This can result in the closing of American mines. There are those who might assert that if the American miners could not produce these commodities in competition, let us say, with African miners, the Americans should shut down. On the other hand, in time of war, should the sea lanes be unavailable, shall we have to have a wildcat frenzy to reopen these mines and to get them working again?

The United States Defense Materials Procurement Agency is reported to have advanced up to $680,000 for the development of Algerian lead production. The company in Constantine, Algeria, is French-owned and it was reported that it would repay the loan by deliveries of lead. This might or might not be a good deal for this country, provided the American mines remain open and are available in time of war.

Otto Herres, chairman of the National Lead and Zinc Committee, quotes a news item from Northern Rhodesia which gives some picture (in 1952 and it is not likely to have changed much) of the American miners' difficulties:

"The African Mine Workers Union called its 23,000 members out on strike today to support demands for a two shillings and eightpence (37c) per shift raise. . . . During negotiations the union rejected a fourpence (5c) per shift raise offer by the companies. The average pay of an African underground worker is four pounds sterling ($11.20) a month plus room and board."

American wages for comparable workers are approximately $360 a month. Wages run about $1.94 an hour. In a word, the American mine worker receives for one day's work about the same amount as an African receives in a month.

Our economy has become so complex because of the condition of permanent war that it is impossible to view any problem from a peacetime standpoint. For instance, the Malay Peninsula and adjacent countries are important to use not only politically but because Singapore controls our supply of raw rubber. In time of peace, whatever the political conditions in Malaya, we should probably be able to purchase supplies of raw rubber; but in modern warfare, the sea lanes could be shut down or imperiled either by the schnorkel submarines or the air power of the Soviet Universal State. Then, we should again become wholly dependent upon synthetic rubber. No matter how optimistic a politician may be about the future, prudence dictates that a country such as ours must be prepared for such an emergency.

The same is true about lead, zinc, vanadium, titanium and every other important metal and mineral. It is foolhardy to trust to our ability to keep the sea lanes open. We may or we may not; we shall only know about that should war actually take place.

The usual State Department argument that American industry can match low wage-scale industries abroad because Americans are more efficient is incorrect. A coolie can operate a semi-automatic machine as competently as a Harvard graduate and I have seen the coolies do it in China. That is not the issue. The issue is how can we keep our mines open if foreign governments dump goods into this country without regard to price. The only practical answer today is that in any industry where the danger of shutting down is real and imminent, the tariff should be used to keep the American industry open.

Corsairs Rout Chicago, 18-10 To Split Even

Cubs Take First, 5-3; Sauer Gets 3 Homers

CHICAGO, May 2 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates exploded for 18 hits to rout the Chicago Cubs, 18-10, in the second game of a double-header before 7,636 here today. The second game was called at the end of the eighth inning due to darkness.

Ten of the Pirates' second game hits were for extra bases.

The Pirates pounded Chicago's seven pitchers for seven doubles, a triple, and two home runs as Bob Friend, although replaced in the eighth by John Hetki, received credit for his first 1954 triumph. The Cubs were also in a hitting mood, getting two doubles and four homers, two by Hank Sauer, who also hit a round-tripper in the opener.

Valo's Initial Hit Of Season Beats Chicago

Gives A's 2-1 Win After 4-0 Setback

PHILADELPHIA, May 2 (AP)—Elmer Valo's first hit of the season—a pinch single off the right field wall in the ninth inning—scored Bill Renna and gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 2-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the second game of a double-header today. Chicago took the opener 4-0 behind Don Johnson's two-hit pitching.

Two homers helped Johnson win the first game for the league-leading White Sox, who are averaging a home run a game this season.

LaSalle Visits Hyndman, Bruce At Mt. Savage

Campers Face Aggies, Valley Invades Beall

LaSalle High's Explorers and Bruce High's Bulldogs, tied for second place in the Bi-State Inter-scholastic Baseball Conference, one game off the pace, will play games away from home today.

The Explorers are scheduled to play Hyndman High School on the Pennsylvania field while the Bulldogs do battle with Mt. Savage at the latter place.

LaSalle and Bruce own 4-2 records and trail the front-running Fort Hill Sentinels (5-1) who are idle today.

Campers At Flintstone

Allegany High School (3-2) invades Flintstone to meet the Aggies who have lost their first six games of the season while Valley High's Black Knights (3-2) are tied to cross bats with the Beall High Mountaineers (2-4) at Frostburg.

Fort Hill plays at Flintstone on Wednesday.

Two Potomac Valley Conference games are on tap for today. At Romney, the West Virginia School for the Deaf (0-8) plays host to the Romney High Pioneers (4-3) while Mathias High (2-1) invades Wardsville to cross bats with the Warriors who have failed to crash the win column in five starts in the 11-school conference.

Potomac, Bobcats Lose

Potomac State College suffered its fourth defeat in its last five outings by dropping a 15-6 decision to Shepherd College's Rams Saturday at Shepherdstown. The loss was the sixth against a single victory for the Bobcats.

Frostburg State Teachers also lost on Saturday to Wilson College at Washington, D. C., 3-2. The setback was the sixth against a single victory for the Bobcats.

NEW! "JIM BO"

INTRODUCING

JIM BO—the most sensational invention in the history of fishing—the artificial minnow that swims. No more live bait to buy. This is the lure sensation of the 20th century.

IT SWIMS—on springs, uses no fuel, if swimmer is long as you leave it in the water. Swims by unique process of balance and gravity. Fish any desired depth—in lake, stream, gulf, bay. Any fish that will strike a minnow will strike JIM BO. This is no gadget. Looks and swims like a live minnow.

This is the lure of all lures—beautiful silver leaf plastic. Buy one for your friends also. Satisfaction guaranteed. Send $1.00 only for each lure. Send check or cash. We pay postage.

Corsairs Rout Chicago, 18-10 To Split Even

Cubs Take First, 5-3; Sauer Gets 3 Homers

CHICAGO, May 2 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates exploded for 18 hits to rout the Chicago Cubs, 18-10, in the second game of a double-header before 7,636 here today, after a 5-3 loss in the opener. The second game was called at the end of the eighth inning due to darkness.

Ten of the Pirates' second game hits were for extra bases.

The Pirates pounded Chicago's seven pitchers for seven doubles, a triple, and two home runs as Bob Friend, although replaced in the eighth by John Hetki, received credit for his first 1954 triumph. The Cubs were also in a hitting mood, getting two doubles and four homers, two by Hank Sauer, who also hit a round-tripper in the opener.

Valo's Initial Hit Of Season Beats Chicago
PHILADELPHIA, May 2 (AP)—Elmer Valo's first hit of the season—a pinch single off the right field wall in the ninth inning—scored Bill Renna and gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 2-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the second game of a doubleheader today. Chicago took the opener 4-0 behind Don Johnson's two-hit pitching.

Two homers helped Johnson win the first game for the league-leading White Sox, who are averaging a home run a game this season.

Mitri Stops Randy Turpin In 1st Round
ROME, May 2 (AP)—Italy's Tiberio Mitri connected with just two punches tonight to stop England's Randy Turpin, former world middleweight champion, in 28 seconds of their 15-round bout for the European 160-pound title.

A short left hook and then a right to the jaw slammed the 23-year old Turpin to the canvas. He fell hard and his head hit the deck with a thump.

The referee counted to eight and then stopped. He motioned to the 27-year old Mitri to raise his hand in victory. Officials first ruled it was a knockout but later said it would go into the books as a technical knockout because the referee did not finish his count.

Turpin, tense, and nervous when the fight began, led with a left jab that missed. Then Mitri, a handsome, part-time movie actor who held the European crown before, fired his left and then his right to fell his opponent.

Turpin arose and wobbled across the ring. The referee, Juan Cervera-Buro of Spain, helped him over to his corner.

Turpin, the defending titleholder, weighed 158½, Mitri, 160.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 2—(INS)—A coup, indeed, is 20th Century-Fox's purchase of the life of Christ—"The Greatest Story Ever Told," which has been read by millions.

The accumulative price of two million dollars, the highest ever paid for a motion picture property, goes to the Oursler estate, according to Darryl Zanuck, who closed the deal. When you consider that the profits on this picture might be well exceed the figure of the highly successful "The Robe," you'll know it's not too much money. An initial payment of $100,000 has been made to the Oursler estate, and various sums will be paid at regular periods.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 2—(INS)—A coup, indeed, is 20th Century-Fox's purchase of Fulton Oursler's fine story of the life of Christ—"The Greatest Story Ever Told," which has been read by millions.

The accumulative price of two million dollars, the highest ever paid for a motion picture property, goes to the Oursler estate, according to Darryl Zanuck, who closed the deal. When you consider that the profits on this picture might very well exceed the figure of the highly successful "The Robe," you'll know it's not too much money. An initial payment of $100,000 has been made to the Oursler estate, and various sums will be paid at regular periods.

TOPS In QUALITY

"We tried to keep the deal quiet," Zanuck said, "although negotiations have been going on for a year."

Of course, this will be Zanuck's personal production for 1955, in Cinemascope and Technicolor.

Rabelais once said, "he that hath patience may compass anything." Alfred Hitchcock should write that right down in his little red book, because he could never see anyone in "Catch A Thief" but Grace Kelly and now, at last, at last, he gets her.

Believe me it took a lot of doing, since M-G-M didn't want to lend Grace to Paramount again. She had made three pictures there and she is very hot. But since nothing is ready for Grace and she had a vacation coming, she is going to be allowed to go to England and co-star with Cary Grant in "Catch A Thief." This is the best news Hitch has had all year.

Vivacious, attractive, little Pier Angeli moves to Warner's studio in early June. She has been borrowed for "The Silver Chalice" and will join Jack Palance, Virginia Mayo and Paul Newman in the film dramatization of Thomas Costain's novel of the early Christian era.

This is the first time Pier has been off the home reservation since she came here from Italy after making "Teresa."

Her little sister, Marissa Pavan, has fallen hard for George Horne. She is about 4 feet 11 and he is about 6 feet 2 and they make a funny pair dancing.

A very hopeful Elizabeth Taylor tells me that since she has had a shot of cortisone in her leg, the torn cartilage is healing and the leg is much more limber. She hopes that she will be well enough in another ten days to return to work.

Johnnie Ray writes me from England that he will be here May 10th to start rehearsals on "There's No Business Like Show Business." Irving Berlin has written a spiritual called "If You Believe," which Johnny will sing.

Julia Adams' ex writer Leonard Stern, can't wait to get to Hollywood with the Jackie Gleason show. Reason is Jarma Lewis, with whom he's been carrying on a long distance romance.

If you are underweight, eat regularly and well, relax and exercise to gain the extra pounds you'd acquire.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

So many of you have written to me with questions about gaining weight that I'm going to devote today's column to the "how to do it" of rounding out your figure.

The most important factor is diet, and its regulation. Simply eating more of everything isn't the answer. Your food must be chosen carefully, with thought to the balance of your menus. Your three-day-a-day should be high in mineral, vitamin and protein content as well as in starches and sugars.

Educate your appetite to three meals, on schedule, plus snacks in the mid-morning, mid-afternoon and before bedtime. Hold on, now!

don't rush for the bon bon box or the soda fountain for between-meals figure-builders... you'll benefit far more, weight-wise, from snacking on milk, fruit, plain cookies or crackers, and cheese, than from concentrating on sweets. You'll be keeping a watchful eye on your complexion, too!

Calorie Count
Perhaps you will find, when you embark on your build-up program, that you don't crave the food that takes to count up a daily 2500 calories. That's why I advise "educating your appetite," by slowly building up your capacity for food, eating slightly more than you customarily do, at each meal.

Eating slowly, allowing time to enjoy your meals, aids digestion and adds up to the proper fueling of your energy. Rest after eating, whenever you can, and avoid tension at all times. Strain and rush burn up the calories instead of putting them to their proper task of forming pounds.

If your underweight problem is concentrated in one area, correct diet will be helpful in balancing proportions, but equally important is spot exercise.

For the bust, this is a good exercise: sit with hands tightly clasped. Raise your arms with elbows bent so they are opposite your forehead. Push the hands together so you feel the movement in your chest muscles. Do this 50 times daily.

A Thigh Builder
For the thighs: lie on your right side on the floor, supporting your head on your right arm. Put your left hand flat on the floor, for balance. Now raise your left leg about six inches and bring the right leg up to meet it. Lower both legs slowly and rest. Repeat 15 times, roll over on your left side and repeat 15 times more.

Remember, these are muscle-firming exercises, and it takes time for them to accomplish your intent. Keep up your diet, your exercise—and by all means, relax! Relaxation is always important to the process of increasing contours.

Tomorrow: Mother's Day notes.
YOUR BEAUTY DIET
No matter what your weight problem—whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same—YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

Long Won't Seek Mayoralty, Files For Council Position

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long announced Saturday that he will be a candidate to succeed himself in City Council subject to the municipal primary June 1 and the city election June 15. Regarded as a likely candidate for Mayor, he said Saturday that he feels he can best serve Cumberland in Council.
"The experience gained as an administrator of two departments so vital to the progress and growth of a modern city as well as the knowledge I have gained of municipal government generally should stand me in good stead as the critical problems of the next four years arise," he explained in making known his decision.
In his announcement statement, Long says:
"Because people from every section of Cumberland, representing every economic group, have frankly requested that I seek reelection to the City Council, I am pleased to announce my candidacy."
"I have considered long and seriously the request of different groups of friends who urged me to accept the challenge of seeking election to another post. I appreciate these evidences of trust and confidence.
"However, if the four critical years ahead can be made less critical for Cumberland by the type of law enforcement and progressive and business-like administration of the Police and Fire Departments that have characterized the past four years, I feel morally obligated to seek reelection to the City Council.
"At the same time, I must renew the pledge I made the first time I sought election to public office: that I will work incessantly for the best interests of all the citizens of Cumberland and never become a pawn in the hands of a political faction or a pressure group. I will never relinquish the privilege of independent thinking nor the privilege of voting on issues according to the dictates of my own conscience, enlightened by all the facts available on the particular issue. I invite critical review of the accomplishments of the four years I have served as Police and Fire Commissioner.

Two Patrolmen Named To Study Detective Duties

Dennison, Cabbage To Be Replacements
Two patrolmen have been assigned to the City Detective Bureau for training in that division of the Cumberland Police Department. Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long has announced. They are Patrolman Walter Dennison and Patrolman Charles Cabbage. Their duty becomes effective this morning.
Commissioner Long said Officer Dennison will report to Detective Roy Hawse on the 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. shift and Officer Cabbage to Detective Leo E. Law on the 1 a. m. to 9 a. m. platoon for training. These officers, the commissioner said, will replace the detectives when they are off duty during the week. The Police Department operates on a five-day week.
"The good record that the Detective Bureau is establishing with criminal investigations makes it desirable for other officers to receive training and cooperate in this important and necessary phase of law enforcement," the commissioner said.
Lt. James E. Van, head of the Detective Bureau, will be in charge of the training.
A copy of the order was sent to Acting Chief of Police B. F. Gaffney, Lt. Van and the Civil Service Commission. Chief Gaffney is in charge of the department for the next week while Chief of Police R. E. Flynn is on vacation.

Traffic And Parking

"In traffic, the walk lights were removed from Baltimore Street. Subsequently, the Baltimore Street lights were synchronized. In addition, to expediting the movement of traffic, this increased the efficiency of the department by making available the three officers formerly confined to the boxes and their two relief men—a total of five men were made available for patrol and protection duty.
"Passage of the parking authority through the state legislature was achieved, but at the same time private enterprise was urged to plan for the free parking of customers' cars.
"A new traffic ticket was designed in triplicate to make impossible the practice of "fixing" tickets. The courtesy parking meter was installed on the sergeant's desk.
"Two hundred and sixty-five modern automatic parking meters have been purchased to replace old, worn out meters in the downtown section.
"Cumberland was given the pedestrian safety award for 1953.
"Other achievements include the motor vehicle educational program; bus station removal from George Street; motor vehicle examination location transferred from congested central business section; Police Court reorganized so that order replaced bedlam; purchase of Radar Speedometer and men trained in its use, and an educational program conducted to familiarize the people with it before convictions were sought by its use; complete coordinated record system and file, supervised by a file clerk; complete monthly accident record for all Cumberland traffic accidents; suggestion system for members of both departments; modern equipment for a requisition system for purchases over $25; monthly budget reports from the Chief of Police; daily written reports by every member of the department; condensed up-to-date file system of purchases and costs planned "on-the-job" training for newly employed policemen; training program for detectives; specialized officer training by F. B. I. and State Police; a coordinated school safety and child protection program; elimination of a meter checker, giving him regular police duties; planned schedule of work for the painter; all officers "checked" personally twice each platoon by the commanding officer; rules and regulations for police to be revised and printed by the Civil Service Commission, and placement of Sergeants according to seniority and sergeant's responsibilities.
"An ordinance was put through providing for the revocation of poolroom licenses on conviction of gambling.
"The Police Department was never in a better financial position. Compare our operating appropriation of $191,800 with that of Hagerstown's $218,000. Cost per Cumberland resident is $4.25 per resident. Cost per Hagerstown resident is $6.
"A five day work week was started in the Police and Fire Departments without an increase of the budget or operating cost.
"In contrast to the National Crime Record rise of 5%, Cumberland has achieved a 1.5% decrease in crime.
In the Fire Department accomplishments include in-service training; and every fireman received University of Maryland advanced course of fire fighting training; fire inspections of buildings; civil defense program; fire chiefs car equipped with radio; central control telephone board for all fire houses; and two new fire trucks and other modern equipment purchased."

Moose Lodge Plans Mother's Day Fete

Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose, will conduct a Mother's Day program next Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Lodge Home, Paca Street.
Arrangements for the affair are being handled by the degree staff of the lodge, of which Charles Pettie is chairman. The program, Pettie stated, will feature an address by Rev. Carl Johnson Jr., pastor of First Christian Church. Master of ceremonies will be A. Charles Stewart, register of wills for Allegany County.

Trash Pick Up Scheduled To Begin Here On May 10

Next week you can get rid of that trash that has been accumulating in your attic and basement since last spring.
There will be a block-by-block "pick-up" of all kinds of trash, starting Monday, May 10, as a major phase of the annual Clean-Up Week sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.
City trucks and crews, augmented by those of private contractors, will cover the entire city. The city will be divided into three zones and the "pick-up" will be completed in three days, one zone a day, as follows:
Monday, May 10—The area north of Williams Street to Wells Creek, east side, and the city line north and east.
Tuesday, May 11—All the streets from Williams Street south.

Keegan To Seek Council Seat For Fourth Term

City Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan announced Saturday that he will be a candidate to succeed himself in the primary election Tuesday, June 1.
He is now rounding out his third term in office, having first been elected in 1946. He was also elected in 1950 and in 1952.
Keegan said he will again give all his support to the program under which new industries would be attracted to Cumberland. He cited his talk at a City Council session April 28, 1952 in which he urged the city to take action to promote new industry and provide employment for the jobless. In March of the same year he also urged that an official of a firm which made steel strapping be contacted by the city in order that Cumberland's advantages as a location for a new business be outlined, Keegan declared.
Other projects which Keegan said he backed fully are the Jans Frazier Village and Benjamin Baneker Homes, two low-rental housing units. Keegan also stated that he had supported a proposed new street between Bedford and Frederick Streets along the B&O Railroad tracks. This would also be part of a proposed extension of North George Street and would do much to eliminate traffic congestion in the downtown area, Keegan pointed out.
The achievement closest to his heart, Keegan said, was the initiation of the order calling for a paid recreational director in the city, which launched Cumberland's recreation program under Edmund Hoy and his successor, Robert E. Pence.
Keegan also said he sponsored a recent ordinance designed to eliminate the indiscriminate abandonment of old ice boxes which has led to tragedies throughout the nation when children have been trapped inside.
Other projects which Keegan said he favors includes public parking facilities, paving of Frederick Street to where it intersects Route 220 and the industrial highway in South Cumberland. Keegan said he has also voted for all proposals which would further the flood control work.
Keegan pointed to his work as finance commissioner and cited a saving to the city of $3,000 under the five-year plan for insurance on all city buildings and equipment. The insurance is divided among various local firms.
Keegan reiterated his contention that "less talk and more action" is needed in order to show progress in the campaign for new industries. He also said existing small industries now located here should be encouraged where possible.
At present Keegan is district sales manager for the Queen City Brewing Company for Allegany County. An athlete of note in this section for many years, Keegan said he was one of the original backers of the city recreation program.
He resides at 310 Cumberland Street. His wife, the former Miss Nelle Keis, died several months ago.

Boosters To Meet

The Ridgely High School Boosters Club will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the high school. All members are urged to attend as summer activities will be planned.

Law Office—John M. Robb
ORDER OF PUBLICATION
Lonei J. Moreland, Plaintiff, vs. Georgia Virginia Moreland, Defendant. No. 2922 Equity. Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.
The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce. A Vinculus Matrimonii of the Plaintiff from the defendant.
The Bill states that the parties hereto were married on June 29, 1951, in Cumberland, Maryland, and the defendant deserted the plaintiff, without just cause or reason, and said desertion has continued uninterrupted for more than 18 months prior to the filing of the Bill herein, and the parties have not cohabited as man and wife during said period. That there is no reasonable hope or expectation of a reconciliation. That no children were born of said marriage. That plaintiff is a resident of the State of Maryland, and defendants last known address is Rt. 1, Inwood, West Virginia.
IT IS THEREUPON this 17th day of April, 1954, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper, once in each of four successive weeks before the filing of a motion for judgment, do cause by solicitor, on or before the 27th day of June, 1954, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Braddock Farms House Burned In Demonstration

Exhibition Ends Area Fire School

An abandoned four-room frame house at Braddock Farms was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon in a realistic demonstration which marked the end of a two-day fire school sponsored by the University of Maryland Fire Service Extension for volunteer firemen of Allegany and Garrett counties.

In demonstrating how to stop the fire, the fire school leaders drew water from nearby Braddock Run, relayed it to the pump and then to the fire. During the exhibition, the blaze was stopped a number of times.

After the demonstration was finished the fire instructors allowed the old building to burn to the ground. During the demonstration, fog and straight stream nozzles were used on the shack.

Cromwell Zembower, chairman of a three-man committee from the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association which arranged the school, said that 80 volunteers from 18 of the 29 active fire companies in the two counties registered for the school. Serving with Zembower on the committee were Joseph Stuckey of Corriantown and Joseph Wenrich of Cresaptown.

Except for the actual fire demonstration, all other activities in the two-day school were conducted in Frostburg.

One of the Saturday highlights was a firemanship demonstration on the Beall High School grounds. That exhibition featured use of pre-connected lines, relaying water with portable pumps, getting all water available from a hydrant and demonstration of fog nozzles.

Robert C. Byrns, director of the Fire Extension Service at College Park, officiated at the school. He was assisted by W. Thomas Owens, senior instructor of the Fire Extension Service; Curtis C. Larrimore, also an instructor, and Joseph F. X. Mayhew of Landover Hills, chairman of the fire training committee of the State Firemen's Association.

Trinity Pastor Named Lutheran District Visitor

Rev. G. A. Wagner, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, was elected visitor of circuit No. 5 of the Southeastern District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, at the recent district convention in Conover, N. C.

The circuit comprises the area including Washington and Cumberland, and circuit visitors represent the president of the district.

Rev. William Kohn was elected president of the district, replacing Dr. R. S. Ressemeyer who had requested to be relieved of his duties.

During the sessions which closed Thursday Rev. Wagner served on the missions committee which recommended that salaries of missionary pastors throughout the district be increased from $210 to $235, with graduated increases according to years of service.

The recommendation was adopted by the convention, which also approved another resolution recommending the placing of $8,000 a year in the budget for church expenses.

James Brown of Cumberland represented Trinity Church as lay delegate as more than 500 persons attended the 15th anniversary service Wednesday. Rev. Wagner and Brown returned to Cumberland Friday to report to the Trinity Lutheran Church congregation.

Times-News Papers Win Safety Award

The Times & Alleganyan Company is among 33 newspaper publishing firms which have received certificates of merit in a nationwide safe driving contest for having operated their circulation fleets without an accident during 1953.

The awards, given by the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the International Circulation Managers Association, were based on mileage and accident reports submitted by 217 participating newspaper managers.

Kirk To Assume New Duties Today

David E. Kirk of Barton will assume new duties as transfer clerk in the County Assessing Department at the Court House today. Kirk, who has been working as a clerk in the County Roads Department garage, takes the place vacated by the promotion of Francis J. Plummer of RFD 1, Frostburg. Plummer was named an assessor by the county commissioners to fill a vacancy caused by the death of J. Frederick Walton in February.

'Skyhook' Is Erected

A temporary steel structure, with twin columns jutting 70 feet into the air, will be used as a "skyhook" by the American Bridge Company of Pittsburgh as its workmen begin building the superstructure of the Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge atop the West Side dam in the Potomac River. Cables secured at each end of the dam from the steel columns erected on the center pier will be used to support the bridge structure as it is put into place. A temporary coffer dam can be seen on the left side of the center pier as water spills over the opposite side. The work in the dam is about 93 per cent completed.

Modern Hen House, Wild Turkey Farm Highlight Teachers' County Tour

By ALBERT D. DARBY

A modern chicken house in which every hen is housed in a separate cage, and the state's only wild turkey farm were among the most interesting stops on an all-day Allegany County conservation tour conducted Saturday especially for the enlightenment of county teachers.

Man Is Injured In 3-Car Mishap

One man was injured in a three-car collision on U. S. Route 50 about eight miles west of Keyser on Allegheny Front yesterday morning.

Cpl. F. H. Tribett, West Virginia State Police, said Leo Elbin, 28, of Keyser suffered a severely cut lower jaw and had several teeth knocked out when he struck his head against the windshield of the car in which he was riding.

Tribett said the collision occurred about 8:35 a. m. when Mrs. Violet Elbin, 24, wife of the injured man, swung her car too far into the opposite lane of traffic while rounding a sharp curve on the mountain and collided with an automobile descending the mountain toward Keyser.

The latter car was driven by Rev. Harry C. Swartz, 67, Bayard, W. Va., pastor, on his way to church services. Swartz' car was hit from the rear by an automobile closely following and driven by William G. Brogan, 31, Washington.

John McKee, 30, of Newport News, Va., a passenger in the Brogan car, suffered a bruised forehead in the collision but did not require treatment. Elbin was treated at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at First Presbyterian Church, Frostburg, by the pastor, Rev. Ralph S. Illingworth. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Jesus And The Multitude

By REV. R. S. ILLINGWORTH

All the evangelists tell this story of Jesus and the multitude. It was the sort of "mighty work" that impressed their mind, and they also had their part in it; consequently, they would remember it well. Let us first look at the crowd that followed Jesus.

What drew them? Some are always ready to answer: curiosity. This is true. But it was a very deep, strong curiosity that would drive people so far and through so much. Some were sick and wanted to be healed. Some had friends that they wanted helped. It would be an endless task to conjecture the store of motives that moved a crowd like this, and it would not be necessary. The point is: here is a picture of the vast, hungry, discontented multitudes that fill this world, and the outstanding fact about them is that they are seeking, always seeking. Mankind is the victim of a vague, aimless, restless urge that troubles it without end. Life to countless men has neither aim nor object, and oppresses the mind and heart with a sense of futility. Men everywhere are feeling this despair. There is something in the daily grind that does not satisfy. There is a nameless homesickness and disgust that sickens men's hearts, and it will not give away until life is given some higher explanation. Men in their chase for dollars, reputation, power, or whatever other idol, soon find the game is not worth the candle, that their star is a lie, that their ambition is but delusion.

We who work in the church are often impatient at the slow pace of its progress. True, it has spread from a little beginning to every land and now embraces hundreds of millions. Yet we are surrounded by people who are not in the church; there are far more of them than of those who belong to the church. We are inclined to say that people do not care; that they love other things more than that which the church can give them. To some extent this explanation is true, but it is far from wholly true.

There is a vast deal more of hungering and thirsting after righteousness than we have any conception of; far more groping after Christ than we imagine; and if it is an ignorant, blundering groping, it is not the less real, only the more pathetic on that account. It is a fact that if you ask men why they are striving, they cannot tell you. They hurry and press on, but they cannot tell you what is their goal.

The hope of the world lies in the wonderful power of God to multiply the little ambitions and hopes that we have, just as he multiplied the small provender on hand in order to feed the multitude. We have seen the multiplying power of our Lord at work through the centuries, making the little great, turning units into thousands, exalting the lowly to degrees.

We honor our Master when we rely on Him most. We can never misplace confidence in Him. One cannot trust Him in vain.

New Cub Scout Packs May Be Organized Soon

Meeting Is Held To Discuss Plans

Two organizations have indicated interests in forming Cub Scout packs following a meeting Friday in scout headquarters in the county building on Union Street, Willis V. Smith, executive secretary of Potomac Council, said last night.

Meeting with scout officials, who explained how the packs are organized and the responsibilities of the sponsoring organization, were representatives of Centre Street PTA, John Humbird School PTA and Johnson Heights PTA.

Centre Street representatives told Smith the group fully intends to sponsor a new Cub pack and that it will set up organizational meetings sometime this week.

Will Report To PTA

The John Humbird School representatives will report to the school PTA when it meets tomorrow at the school, Smith said and from that meeting will come the decision whether the PTA will sponsor a new pack.

Johnson Heights officials were uncertain at Friday's meeting whether the school PTA would follow through with a new organization.

At present there are nine Cub packs in the Cumberland district, most of them sponsored by parent-teacher associations. Their enrollment of boys 8 to 10 years of age totals over 300 at present.

A Cub pack is essentially a neighborhood and organizational job, with little outside scout activities. The packs organize with den parents, den chiefs and a Cubmaster and carry on activities within the organization.

Programs Scheduled

Each month Cub Scouts prepare various programs geared to special themes outlined by Cub Scout headquarters. The theme "Story of Oil" has just been completed for the month of April by most packs and the May theme will be "Mississippi Showboat."

Cub packs will prepare skits and stunts, family projects and some excursions in line with the theme. Many of the pack members will make models of early river boats, fix up collections and scrapbooks of pictures and drawings of riverboat days, and meetings will be conducted with tales of early explorers on skits to portray historic events.

Return Judges To Take Oath Of Office Tonight

Return judges who will serve in the city primary and general elections June 1 and June 15 and in the state and county primary election June 28 will be sworn in at 7 o'clock this evening at the City Hall by William A. Wilson, chairman of the County Board of Election Supervisors.

Those to receive their oaths tonight will come from some of the outlying election districts as well as from all of the city precincts. Those instructed to report are the return judges from all precincts in Election Districts Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 14, 16, 20, 21, 22, 23, 29, 33, 34 and 35.

Besides all of the Cumberland precincts that also includes Little Orleans, Oldtown, Flintstone, Bowling Green, North Branch, Cresaptown, Corriantown, Ellerslie, Baltimore Pike, LaVale, Kifer, Bedford Road and East Side.

The Weather

Cumberlanders flocked to parks and picnic spots again yesterday as the city experienced another July-type Sunday, with an official high temperature of 88 degrees. The unofficial downtown reading hit 90 twice during the day. The official low was 56, and a trace of rain at 7 p. m. brought the mercury down about six degrees. Today is expected to be warm and humid, with scattered thunder showers, but cooler tonight.

Pigeon Club Starts Races For Season

The Allegany Racing Pigeon Club resumed its activities yesterday with its first "old bird" race of the season, a 100-mile event from West Union, W. Va., to Cumberland in which 112 birds from 13 lofts competed.

Winner of the first race for the old pigeons—birds two and three years old—was Bow Tie, owned by the Excelsior Loft of M. M. Green, North Mechanic Street, clocked in the averaged speed of 1220.20 yards per minute for the flight.

The weather was foggy at West Union when the birds were liberated at 9 a. m. yesterday. It was clear when they began arriving here at 11:38 a. m.

Other birds close to the winner were Consolation, from Lost Loft of Dudley Shafer, North Mechanic Street, second, 1217.76 yards per minute; Anniversary Special, from Lucky's Loft of Joseph Luckiewicz, LaVale, third, 1215.33 yards per minute; Jack High, from the MacArthur Loft of C. A. Smith and J. J. McAtee, LaVale, fourth, 1214.99 yards per minute; Red Star, from Lucky's Loft, fifth, 1212.08 yards per minute; Little Girl, from Pear Alley Loft of Joseph Sweitzer, sixth, 1210.14 yards per minute; Walnut Belle from Walnut Loft of Charles Smith, seventh, 1208.41, and an unnamed bird from the Excelsior Loft, eighth, 1208.12 yards per minute.

Another 100-mile race from West Union is scheduled for next Sunday.

Mt. Radio Club Plans Election Set For May 13

The annual election of officers of Mountain Amateur Radio Club will be conducted May 13 at the club's quarters in the home of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion.

Howard V. Burns has been nominated unopposed for the office of president. Other nominees are Royce Smelser, Robert C. Harper, for vice president and Kenneth G. Lease and W. Gibbs Smith, secretary.

There were no nominees for the office of treasurer, now held by Gerald Harrison. During the meeting Thursday, night a motion was passed to affiliate with the American Radio Relay League, the national organization which represents the amateur fraternity.

On May 23 the club will sponsor a hidden transmitter hunt from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. The transmitter, operating on a frequency of 3900 kilocycles, will be concealed within a six-mile radius of the city and will be on five minutes and off 15 minutes during the three-hour period.

The code classes which have been conducted every Tuesday evening have been suspended for the summer months. Nominations of other officers of the club will be made from the floor on May 13 and installation of officers will be held on May 27.

Home Ec Leaders Will Visit Here

Federal and state home economics officials will be in Allegany County for three days this week checking on the home economics program conducted in the county public schools, according to Miss Ruth C. McColly, home economics supervisor.

Visiting here during the course of a tour of Western Maryland public schools will be Dr. Margaret Alexander, program specialist in home economics for the U. S. Office of Education; Miss Elizabeth Amery and Miss Evelyn F. Miller, state supervisors of home economics.

Tuesday afternoon they will visit Beall High School in Frostburg and the Allegany House opposite Allegany High School. Wednesday afternoon will be spent at Valley High School in Lonaconing. That evening they will attend a fashion show in Mt. Savage conducted by Mrs. Marie Farrell's adult education sewing classes. Thursday morning they will go to Fort Hill and Carver high schools.

Garrett Town To Get Modern Phone System

C&P Completing Bittering Work

"It's an ill wind..." Or so it would seem to the folks up around Bittering in Garrett County.

For over 50 years, the Bittering area had been served by a little privately-owned telephone company, serving about 50 area subscribers and operated very economically, but with limited service.

Then a sleet and wind storm struck in January of 1953. It was one of the worst ever to hit the area. After it was over, The Bittering Mutual Telephone Company was almost non-existent. Poles were down, wires were down and service was paralyzed.

The owners of the company, headed by Nelson Orendorf, president; W. E. Buckle, vice president; and I. O. Yaste and Marvin Bertzell, made a survey. They and other residents soon realized that the task and cost of rebuilding the system would be too great.

Asked C&P For Help

They appealed to the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company for assistance.

According to C. Walter Haschert Jr., local manager for the C&P Telephone Company, a preliminary survey was made and it was estimated on a minimum basis for about $65,000. Further engineering studies and a comprehensive survey brought the actual cost to $102,000.

The company now has crews of workmen in the area setting poles, stringing wire and planning to install telephones. The commercial department, upon checking the area, found 85 residents where telephones are wanted and will be installed.

A new and modern dial system is being constructed, providing complete local and long-distance service for the entire area.

Bittering, after about August 1, will have a telephone system second to none anywhere, Haschert declared.

New Building Going Up

Party lines, private lines and business phones are being made available to the entire rural area around Bittering. A new building to house modern dial equipment has been constructed.

This building will be unattended, except for an occasional visit by technician or repairman, since equipment is completely automatic and will eventually tie in with a dial system planned for Cumberland and other nearby areas.

Haschert said the task of servicing this rural area is larger than preliminary surveys indicated. After the preliminary study, plans were sent to engineers and drawing boards were worked over for long hours before a comprehensive plan and modern installation was evolved.

The threat of sleet, high winds and snow in the area posed a problem which engineers took into consideration.

Poles bearing the heavy telephone cables are being placed as close as 35 feet apart instead of the customary 100 to 125 feet. Thus the weight is divided and engineers believe the wires and cables will bear the weight of heavy icing.

Temporary Line Up

The area has not been completely without telephone service since the sleet storm, as the telephone company did install a line on which there are 32 subscribers. This line hooks in with Grantsville.

Haschert was generous in his praise of the people in the area. After meeting with residents, with representatives of the company, and with the Public Service Commission, Haschert said, the plan was worked out amicably.

The residents helped obtain right-of-way for the new lines and in many places helped to clear the right-of-way.

Bittering is an important area. The rural section abounds in good farmland and has several large turkey and poultry farms, as well as herds of cattle.

The new two-five number plan with automatic dialing is a far cry from the old pre-World War I hand-operated telephones which were tied into an old-fashioned switchboard. The switchboard was located in a private dwelling and was operated by an 85-year-old blind man, J. B. Emory, who gave the area service between 7 a. m. and 10 p. m. daily.

Rates Agreed Upon

Haschert said the new system for Bittering, a direct outgrowth of the disaster which hit the area almost a year and a half ago, will not greatly increase the local cost of telephone service to the subscribers and will not affect rates in other areas at all.

A base rate for Bittering has been agreed upon and a base rate area established. Toll charges will be the same to distant points as from any comparable area.

Haschert ventured the prediction that the new system will serve as an important factor to the economic welfare of this rural area and said his company is interested in watching the development which engineers and company economists feel certain will follow.

No Meeting Tonight

The regular business meeting of Court Cardinal Gibbons, Catholic Daughters of America, will be held May 10 at St. Patrick's Social Center at 7:30 p. m. There will be no meeting tonight as previously planned.

Yearbook Staff Honored

Allegany High School yearbook staff which will be issued today and tomorrow, got a sendoff at a weekend party for some 30 members of the yearbook staff at Ali Ghan Country Club. At the speakers table are (left to right) Mrs. Ralph R. Webster, her husband, who is superintendent of county public schools and former

Braddock Farms House Burned In Demonstration

Exhibition Ends Area Fire School

An abandoned four-room frame house at Braddock Farms was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon in a realistic demonstration which marked the end of a two-day fire school sponsored by the University of Maryland Fire Service Extension for volunteer firemen of Allegany and Garrett counties.

In demonstrating how to stop the fire, the fire school leaders drew water from nearby Braddock Run, relayed it to the pumper and then to the fire. During the exhibition, the blaze was stopped a number of times.

After the demonstration was finished the fire instructors allowed the old building to burn to the ground. During the demonstration, fog and straight stream nozzles were used on the shack.

Cromwell Zembower, chairman of a three-man committee from the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association which arranged the school, said that 80 volunteers from 18 of the 29 active fire companies in the two counties registered for the school. Serving with Zembower on the committee were Joseph Stuckey of Corriganville and Joseph Wenrich of Cresaptown.

Except for the actual fire demonstration, all other activities in the two-day school were conducted in Frostburg.

One of the Saturday highlights was a firemanship demonstration on the Beall High School grounds. That exhibition featured use of pre-connected lines, relaying water with portable pumps, getting all water available from a hydrant and demonstration of fog nozzles.

Robert C. Byrns, director of the Fire Extension Service at College Park, officiated at the school. He was assisted by W. Thomas Owens, senior instructor of the Fire Extension Service; Curtis C. Larrimore, also an instructor, and Joseph F. X. Mayhew of Landover Hills, chairman of the fire training committee of the State Firemen's Association.

Trinity Pastor Named Lutheran District Visitor

Rev. G. A. Wagner, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, was elected visitor of circuit No. 5 of the Southeastern District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, at the recent district convention in Conover, N. C.

The circuit comprises the area including Washington and Cumberland, and circuit visitors represent the president of the district.

Rev. William Kohn was elected president of the district, replacing Dr. R. S. Ressemeyer who had requested to be relieved of his duties.

During the sessions which closed Thursday Rev. Wagner served on the missions committee which recommended that salaries of missionary pastors throughout the district be increased from $210 to $235, with graduated increases according to years of service.

The recommendation was adopted by the convention, which also approved another resolution recommending the placing of $8,000 a year in the budget for church expenses.

James Brown of Cumberland represented Trinity Church as lay delegate as more than 500 persons attended the 15th anniversary service Wednesday. Rev. Wagner and Brown returned to Cumberland Friday to report to the Trinity Lutheran Church congregation.

Times-News Papers Win Safety Award

The Times & Alleganyan Company is among 33 newspaper publishing firms which have received certificates of merit in a nationwide safe driving contest for having operated their circulation fleets without an accident during 1953.

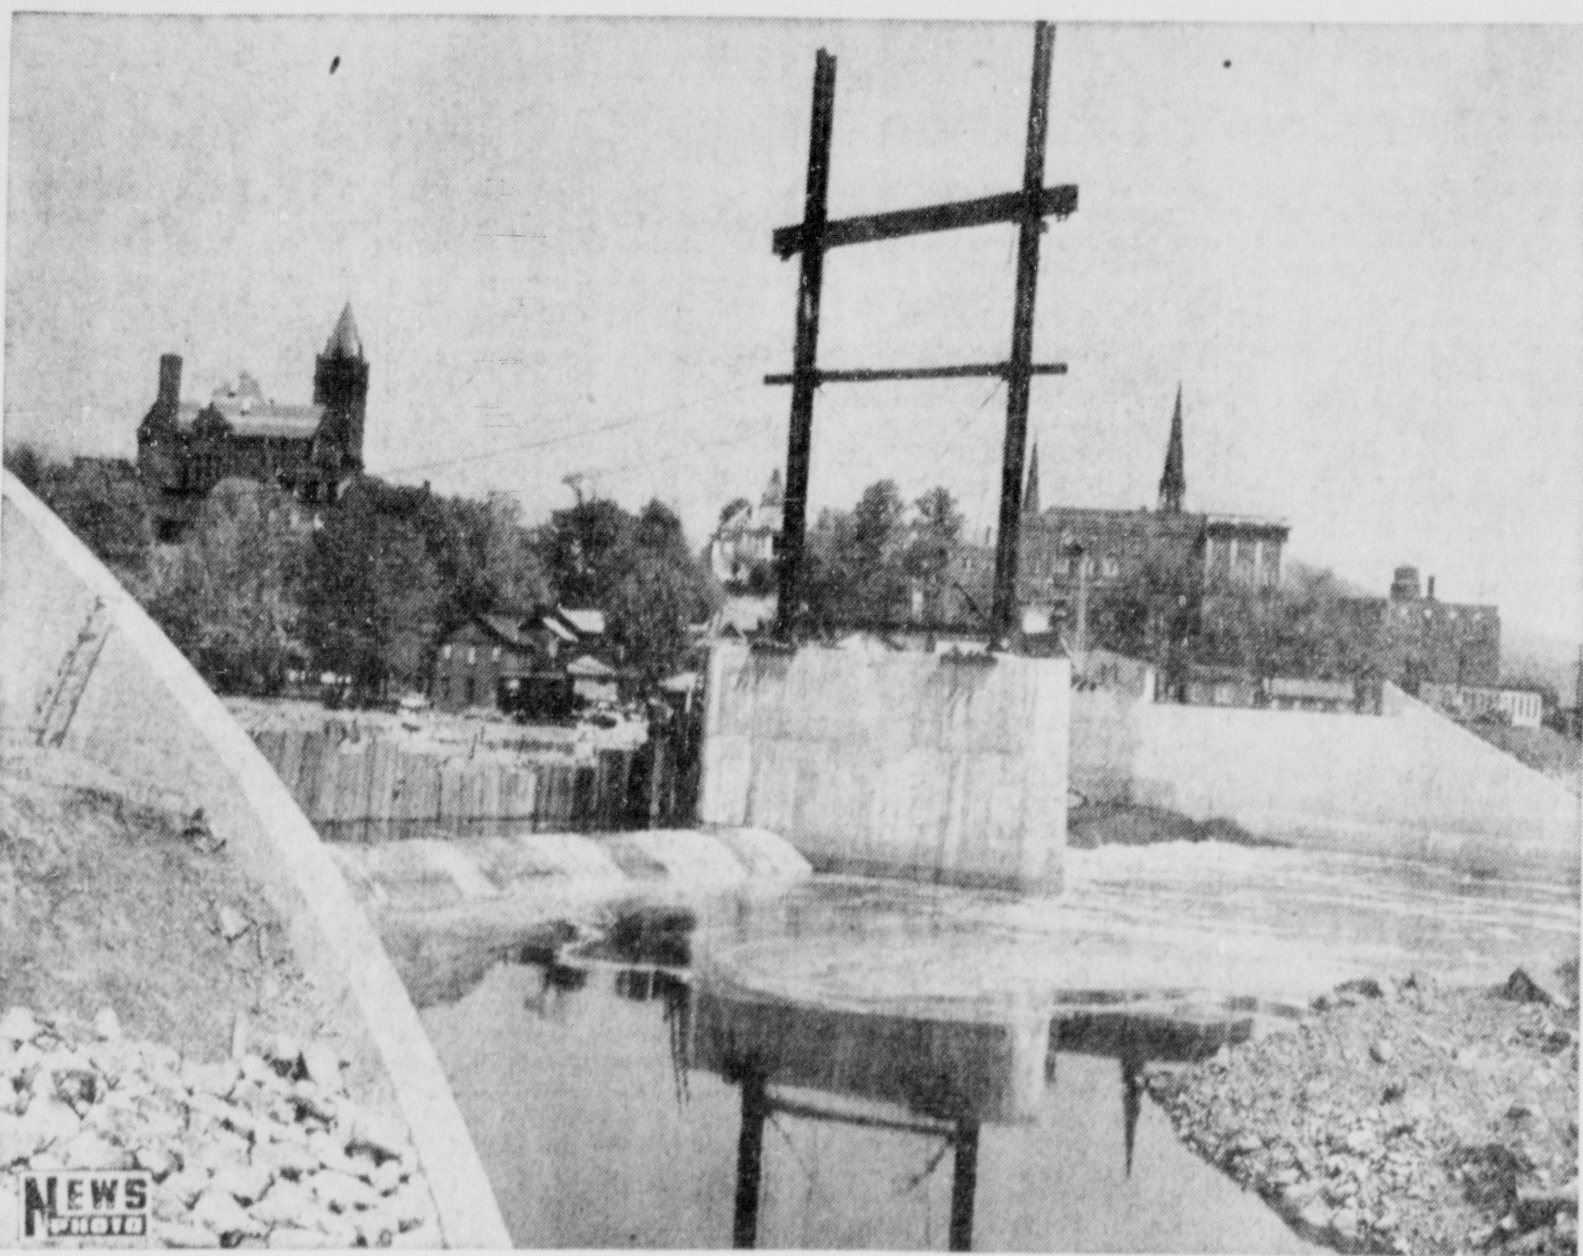

The awards, given by the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the International Circulation Managers Association, were based on mileage and accident reports submitted by 217 participating newspaper management.

Announced at the recent 68th meeting of the ANPA-ICMA in New York, the awards will be presented at the annual convention of the ICMA at Daytona Beach, Fla., June 22-24.

Kirk To Assume New Duties Today

David E. Kirk of Barton will assume new duties as transfer clerk in the County Assessing Department at the Court House today.

Kirk, who has been working as a clerk in the County Roads Department garage, takes the place vacated by the promotion of Francis J. Plummer of RFD 1, Frostburg. Plummer was named an assessor by the county commissioners to fill a vacancy caused by the death of J. Frederick Walton in February.

'Skyhook' Is Erected

A temporary steel structure, with twin columns jutting 70 feet into the air, will be used as a "skyhook" by the American Bridge Company of Pittsburgh as its workmen begin building the superstructure of the Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge atop the West Side dam in the Potomac River. Cables secured at each end of the dam from the steel columns erected on the center pier will be used to support the bridge structure as it is put into place. A temporary coffer dam can be seen on the left side of the center pier as water spills over the opposite side. The work in the dam is about 93 per cent completed.

Modern Hen House, Wild Turkey Farm Highlight Teachers' County Tour

By ALBERT D. DARBY News Staff Writer

A modern chicken house in which every hen is housed in a separate cage, and the state's only wild turkey farm were adjudged the most interesting stops on an all-day Allegany County conservation tour conducted Saturday especially for the enlightenment of county teachers.

The hen house, started last September, is operated by Dale T. Mann in the Belle Grove area at the extreme eastern end of Allegany County, between Town Hill and Siding Hill. Young Mann, who was graduated from Flintstone High School back in 1942, has cages about four feet from the ground, for 1,000 white leghorn hens in his chicken house.

On each cage is an egg record card on which the young farmer keeps tab of the production of each hen. There's no guesswork about the egg production. The wire mesh floor on each cage slopes gently so the egg will roll into a trough alongside the cage.

Seven Eggs The quota Mann has set for each hen is seven eggs every 14 days. If a hen's clutch remains empty more than half of the days, the hen will become somebody's Sunday dinner.

During the conservation tour one such unfortunately empty cage was discovered. The former occupant of that cage had produced well during the first 17 days of April, having yielded 14 eggs. Then she stopped producing eggs. When the end of April arrived and the hen's record showed only 14 eggs Mann realized he had to make a change to keep up his production.

The hen house champion as of Saturday had produced an egg every day for 102 successive days. Another has missed only six days a few over 200.

The young farmer, who is a member of the Allegany County Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, figures he gets about 700 eggs each day now from his 1,000 hens. He sells his weekly egg production to one buyer. He did break down and sell a few dozen to the touring teachers.

The farmer with the modern hen house is a son of the late T. T. Mann, who for about 30 years taught a one-room school then located within a stone's throw of the place where the hen house now stands. A bachelor, he lives there along the Mann Road with his mother.

Acquired In 1949 The wild turkey farm, operated by the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, is located on the west side of the county. (Continued on Page 11, Col. 6)

New Cub Scout Packs May Be Organized Soon

Meeting Is Held To Discuss Plans

Two organizations have indicated interests in forming Cub Scout packs following a meeting Friday in scout headquarters in the county building on Union Street, Willis V. Smith, executive secretary of Potomac Council, said last night.

Meeting with scout officials, who explained how the packs are organized and the responsibilities of the sponsoring organization, were representatives of Centre Street PTA, John Humbird School PTA and Johnson Heights PTA.

Centre Street representatives told Smith the group fully intends to sponsor a new Cub pack and that it will set up organizational meetings sometime this week.

Will Report To PTA

The John Humbird School representatives will report to the school PTA when it meets tomorrow at the school, Smith said and from that meeting will come the decision whether the PTA will sponsor a new pack.

Johnson Heights officials were uncertain at Friday's meeting whether the school PTA would follow through with a new organization.

At present there are nine Cub packs in the Cumberland district, most of them sponsored by parent-teacher associations. Their enrollment of boys 8 to 10 years of age totals over 300 at present.

A Cub pack is essentially a neighborhood and organizational job, with little outside scout activities. The packs organize with den parents, den chiefs and a Cubmaster and carry on activities within the organization.

Programs Scheduled

Each month Cub Scouts prepare various programs geared to special themes outlined by Cub Scout headquarters. The theme "Story of Oil" has just been completed for the month of April by most packs and the May theme will be "Mississippi Showboat."

Cub packs will prepare skits and stunts, family projects and some excursions in line with the theme. Many of the pack members will make models of early river boats, fix up collections and scrapbooks of pictures and drawings of riverboat days, and meetings will be conducted with tales of early explorers on skits to portray historic events.

Return Judges To Take Oath Of Office Tonight

Return judges who will serve in the city primary and general elections June 1 and June 15 and in the state and county primary election June 28 will be sworn in at 7 o'clock this evening at the City Hall by William A. Wilson, chairman of the County Board of Election Supervisors.

Those to receive their oaths tonight will come from some of the outlying election districts as well as from all of the city precincts. Those instructed to report are the return judges from all precincts in Election Districts Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 14, 16, 20, 21, 22, 23, 29, 33, 34 and 35.

Besides all of the Cumberland precincts that also includes Little Orleans, Oldtown, Flintstone, Bowling Green, North Branch, Cresaptown, Corriganville, Ellerslie, Baltimore Pike, LaVale, Kifer, Bedford Road and East Side.

The Weather

Cumberlanders flocked to parks and picnic spots again yesterday as the city experienced another July-type Sunday, with an official high temperature of 88 degrees. The unofficial downtown reading hit 90 twice during the day. The official low was 56, and a trace of rain at 7 p. m. brought the mercury down about six degrees. Today is expected to be warm and humid, with scattered thunder-showers, but cooler tonight.

Visiting here during the course of a tour of Western Maryland public schools will be Dr. Margaret Alexander, program specialist in home economics for the U. S. Office of Education; Miss Elizabeth Amery and Miss Evelyn F. Miller, state supervisors of home economics.

Tuesday afternoon they will visit Beall High School in Frostburg and the Allegany House opposite Allegany High School. Wednesday afternoon will be spent at Valley High School in Lonaconing. That evening they will attend a fashion show in Mt. Savage conducted by Mrs. Marie Farrell's adult education sewing classes. Thursday morning they will go to Fort Hill and Carver high schools.

Garrett Town To Get Modern Phone System

C&P Completing Bittering Work

"It's an ill wind..." Or so it would seem to the folks up around Bittering in Garrett County.

For over 50 years, the Bittering area had been served by a little privately-owned telephone company, serving about 50 area subscribers and operated very economically, but with limited service.

Then a sleet and wind storm struck in January of 1953. It was one of the worst ever to hit the area. After it was over, The Bittering Mutual Telephone Company was almost non-existent. Poles were down, wires were down and service was paralyzed.

The owners of the company, headed by Nelson Orendorf, president; W. E. Buckle, vice president; and I. O. Yaste and Marvin Bertzell, made a survey. They and other residents soon realized that the task and cost of rebuilding the system would be too great.

Asked C&P For Help

They appealed to the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company for assistance.

According to C. Walter Haschert Jr., local manager for the C&P Telephone Company, a preliminary survey was made and it was estimated that the system could be about $65,000. Further engineering studies and a comprehensive survey brought the actual cost to $102,000.

The company now has crews of workmen in the area setting poles, stringing wire and planning to install telephones. The commercial department, upon checking the area, found 85 residents where telephones are wanted and will be installed.

A new and modern dial system is being constructed, providing complete local and long-distance service for the entire area.

Bittering, after about August 1, will have a telephone system second to none anywhere, Haschert declared.

New Building Going Up

Party lines, private lines and business phones are being made available to the entire rural area around Bittering. A new building to house modern dial equipment has been constructed.

This building will be unattended, except for an occasional visit by testmen or repairmen, since equipment is completely automatic and will eventually tie in with a dial system planned for Cumberland and other nearby areas.

Haschert said the task of servicing this rural area is larger than preliminary surveys indicated. After the preliminary study, plans were sent to engineers and drawing boards were worked over for long hours before a comprehensive plan and modern installation was evolved.

The threat of sleet, high winds and snow in the area posed a problem which engineers took into consideration.

Poles bearing the heavy telephone cables are being placed as close as 35 feet apart instead of the customary 100 to 125 feet. Thus the weight is divided and engineers believe the wires and cables will bear the weight of heavy icing.

Temporary Line Up

The area has not been completely without telephone service since the sleet storm, as the telephone company did install a line on which there are 32 subscribers. This line hooks in with Grantsville.

Haschert was generous in his praise of the people in the area. After meeting with residents, with representatives of the company, and with the Public Service Commission, Haschert said, the plan was worked out amicably.

The residents helped obtain right-of-way for the new lines and in many places helped to clear the right-of-way.

Bittering is an important area. The rural section abounds in good farmland and has several large turkey and poultry farms, as well as herds of cattle.

The new two-five number plan with automatic dialing is a far cry from the old pre-World War I hand-operated telephones which were tied into an old-fashioned switchboard. The switchboard was located in a private dwelling and was operated by an 85-year-old blind man, J. B. Emory, who gave the area service between 7 a. m. and 10 p. m. daily.

Rates Agreed Upon

Haschert said the new system for Bittering, a direct outgrowth of the disaster which hit the area almost a year and a half ago, will not greatly increase the local cost of telephone service to the subscribers and will not affect rates in other areas at all.

A base rate for Bittering has been agreed upon and a base rate area established. Toll charges will be the same to distant points as from any comparable area.

Haschert ventured the prediction that the new system will serve as an important factor to the economic welfare of this rural area and said his company is interested in watching the development which engineers and company economists feel certain will follow.

No Meeting Tonight

The regular business meeting of Court Cardinal Gibbons, Catholic Daughters of America, will be held May 10 at St. Patrick's Social Center at 7:30 p. m. There will be no meeting tonight as previously planned.

Yearbook Staff Honored

Allegany High School yearbook which will be issued today and tomorrow, got a sendoff at a weekend party for some 30 members of the yearbook staff at Ali Ghan Country Club. At the speakers table are (left to right) Mr. Ralph R. Webster, her husband, who is superintendent of county public schools and former
